PCA members sing at annual meeting

Litton: Urban American needs education about farming

The urban American doesn't know what it means to be a farmer and must be educated before he can understand that a farmer must earn a good return on his money or he won't produce food for the nation's tables, according to Congressman Jerry Litton, Democrat from Chillicothe.

Litton spoke to 1,200 people at the annual meeting of the Production Credit Association Thursday night at the high school band shell.

Farmers must be willing to spend a little of their income to pay for public relations aimed at the urban dweller, who in some case, may have never seen a live cow or hog, Litton said.

When food prices began rising in 1973, farmers began responding by gearing up to produce more, he said. But consumers thought two or three months were enough to get the extra crops and meat produced, Litton added. When the prices didn't begin falling, the housewife boycotts started.

Litton said he talked to consumer groups, telling them the boycotts were counter-productive, but they didn't listen. He said he tried to tell them it takes 18 months for a calf to get to the table.

"When they didn't understand that, I knew we were in trouble," he said. He added that some people he talked to actually thought the government could pass a law and create more beef.

Last year, Litton brought together leaders of the nation's farm groups and helped organize the Agriculture Council of America. He said the Production Credit Association is a strong supporter of the ACA.

On Sept. 9, the council will begin a nationwide public relations campaign with television spots to bring the farmer's message to the city.

What should farmers tell the urban consumer? Tell him Americans have more good things in life because we spend only 16 per cent of each dollar for food, Litton said, where in other countries its much higher; in some parts of Asia as much as 80 per cent.

The reason for the higher food prices today is a food shortage, Litton said. The consumer should be told the farmer must have the profit motive before he will produce more. Give him the income, and the farmer will produce more than America can eat or store.

The reasons for the food shortage, Litton said, include, a boost in Social Security, allowing elderly to buy more food, an increase in the food stamp program, bad crop years in Russia and China and the sale of food grains to those nations, devaluation of the dollar, which made American agricultural products more attractive, a decrease in the anchovie supply for cattle feed and increases in wages for those at the lower ends of the pay scale with the increased wages going for added food purchases.

In order to pass, farm bills must have the support of urban congressmen, Litton said. To get that support, farm congressmen must be willing to support bills aimed at helping only the cities.

Congressman Jerry Litton

By voting against each other, farm and urban congressment have often voted against their best interests, Litton said.

In a press conference prior to the PCA meeting, Litton indicated that he believed a $13.8 billion Agricultural Appropriation Bill, which had been vetoed by former President Richard Nixon before he resigned, could be passed if some expenditures in the bill are decreased.

He said the bill, which encompasses many things, including food stamps, environmental measures and rural water and sewer funds, can be cut. Litton noted that President Gerald Ford had indicated that he was willing to meet Congress half way on legislation and he believed that Congress would be willing to go the other half in trimming the appropriations bill. However, he indicated that all the cuts should not be in rural water and sewer

Kroger won't follow milk act

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A major producer of milk products for consumption in Missouri contends its operation does not require compliance with the state's Unfair Milk Sales Practices Act.

Kroger Co., whose St. Louis County plant processes nearly 46.5 million pounds of milk annually for Missouri sale and processes milk products for consumption in other Midwest states, has never filed reports of its dock costs (raw milk plus handling costs; or wholesale prices under rules requiring such reports, according to a check of Agriculture Department records made public by a legislative committee this week.

State officials have apparently dropped, for the time being, attempts to secure court-ordered compliance with the rule, which the agriculture director has authority to issue under the act for the purpose of carrying out its provisions.

Representatives of the Hazelwood plant said officials able to comment on the matter were unavailable, but a spokesman at the Kroger Co., headquarters in Cincinnati said Kroger had determined its integrated operation—covering processing, distributing and retailing —was not covered by the rule.

"We do not have a wholesale price. In order to have a wholesale price, you have to have a sale," said Audrey McCafferty, manager for public information for Kroger. She explained that Kroger makes no sales once it obtains raw milk for processing, but merely moves the product through the processing operation and to its own store shelves.

Legal division officials of the company refused to comment on the situation, referring inquiries to "corporate affairs, which handles all our relations with the press."

The rules issued under the 1959 law, which is aimed at preventing anticompetitive practices, state, however:

"Where these rules refer to 'processor', 'distributor' or 'retailer' they sahll be applicable to any person who is engaged to any extent in one or more of these categories of business to the extent of such engagement."

State Agriculture Driector James B. Boillot, according to correspondence contained in the incomplete Kroger file, had pushed for the attorney general's office to pursue an attempt to gain a court injunction forcing Kroger to comply with the rules which enable the department to determine the difference between cost of processing and wholesale prices to either distributors or retailers.

"This approach would appear to be the most expeditious way to bring Kroger in line with other integrated processor-distributor-retailer operations," Boillot told Asst. Atty. Gen. William Cole in a letter last Nov. 30. Three other integrated milk operations in Missouri, including the large Safeway grocery store operation in Kansas City, file the required reports, state dairy division chief Charles Vanlanduyt said.

But Cole, who said he initially drew up a draft injunction petition to be filed in St. Louis County Circuit Court, contended that after discussion on the matter, "there was a very serious doubt that (the) rule applies to Kroger."

Discussion of the matter moved from Cole's St. Louis office, he said, to the Jefferson City headquarters of the attorney general, and Brook Bartlett, chief assistant to Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth, said after some discussions on the inuunction question, "I was satisfied that if the commissioner of agriculture wanted to go ahead with the action, it would be filed."

While the injunction petition was not filed, Bartlett said Thursday was the first time he had heard it had not been filed.

Cole said the attorney general's office recommended that the rules be amended by the Agriculture Department so they specifically cover operations like Kroger's.

Boillot, who acknowledged he was rather hazy on the final outcome of the Kroger question, said he recalled a suggestion was made to amend the rules.

But he said the department did not move quickly on any amendments for fear that changing the rules would open them up to court challenge.

The constitutionality of the rules now in force, issued June 22, 1970, was challenged by Foremost-McKesson, Inc., and three other processors, and their enforcement was stayed until December 1972 when the Missouri Supreme Court upheld their constitutionality.

Boillot said ways of revising the rules and strengthening them while avoiding another court challenge is under consideration.

Marshal's resignation questioned

LILBOURN -- The resignation of two city marshals to accept employment as New Madrid County sheriff's deputies within the past four months has become a sore spot for Lilbourn city officials who now are reluctant to accept the most recent resignation.

Conflicting statements have been made by Mayor Bill Tope and Johnny Martin regarding Martin's purported resignation.

According to Tope, Martin has not resigned and is continuing to serve as the city marshal. Tope said Thursday the City Council has deferred any action on the matter until the next regular council meeting, which is scheduled Sept. 5.

Martin, who assumed duties Aug. 1 as a full-time deputy sheriff at a salary of $600 per month, contends that he has resigned. He said he submitted his written resignation on Aug. 1, and again Wednesday night when the council met in special session concerning unrelated matters. Martin said his resignation was to become effective Sept. 1.

Alderman Dick Twitty confirmed that Martin did hand the mayor a written resignation at the meeting Wednesday night. Following a discussion by the council, Twitty said the mayor returned the resignation to Martin and asked him to hold it until Sept. 5.

Twitty said Martin told him a week to 10 days before the council meeting on Aug. 1 that he was going to resign from the office to accept a full-time deputy position.

Martin said he told the council members Wednesday night that because he was elected by the people, he would stay on until they could find a temporary marshal to serve until a special election could be held to fill the position.

Martin was elected in a special city election on June 4 to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Fred Roe, who had been elected on April 2 to a new two-year term. Roe submitted his resignation at the end of the month when he accepted employment as a full-time deputy.

Lilbourn's salary schedule for the city marshal post is $400 per month, plus a $200 allotment for car expense.

A second special election was held in July to fill the city collector's post, which was vacated by Mrs. Ruth Newton when she moved from the city.

The city's cost for a special election has been estimated to be about $500 and apparently the council is becoming weary of financing such elections nearly every month.

Election contest hearing date reset

CHARLESTON – Circuit Judge Marshall Craig reset the hearing for Sept. 28 on a petition contesting the outcome of the race for presiding judge of the County Court in thyAug. 6 primary election.

During a hearing today in Circuit Court on the petition, a motion seeking dismissal of the action to recount the ballots was filed by the attorney for Ralph Adkisson, who won the election for presiding judge by four votes over incumbent W. H. Winchester Jr.

Judge Craig took that motion under advisement.

The original petition which was filed Aug. 13 in Circuit Court by W. H. Winchester Jr., states that Winchester desires to challenge the correctness of the tabulation of votes for the presiding judge office.

The official count of the Aug. 6 election shows that Adkisson received 2,036 votes to Winchester's 2,032.

In other court action today, a murder trial for Mrs. Alma Williams of Charleston, who is charged with the April 20 stabbing death of Lenora Henderson of Charleston was continued to Sept. 10

Judge Craig ordered the forfeiture of bond of Jesse Teague of Bertrand, who failed to appear for trial on a burglary charge. Teague is accused of breaking into the office of R.C. Davis Cotton and Grain Co. in Charleston on Aug. 13.

4 injured in SeMo accidents

Four persons were injured in area accidents Thursday, the high patrol reported today.

An accident involving a tractor-trailor truck and a van injured both drivers and one passenger at 10 p.m. on Interstate 55, four miles south of Sikeston.

The accident occurred when a tractor-trailer rig driven by Donal d Roober, 21, of Delaplaine, Ark., ran into the back of a van driven by Charles Dunn, 40, of Manila, Ark.

The drivers and passenger in the van, Ida Dunn, 42, of Manila, suffered minor injuries. All three were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston for treatment.

Sarah Brown, 17, of Charleston, suffered minor injuries in an accident at 1:55 p.m. on Highway 60 one mile east of Charleston when the car she was driving east was struck from behind while slowing for a left turn by a truck going west, driven by Cecil Davis, 29, of Brent, Ala., at 1:55 p.m. Aug. 15. The highway patrol said the accident occurred when the truck came up behind the car during a rain storm. Davis applied his breaks, but the truck slid into the other lane and struck the car.

Thieves get stereo, TV in break-in

Burglars carried off a television set and a stereo tape player from the Ryan Construction Co., 490 Davis Blvd., between 7 p.m. Thursday and 7 a.m. today.

Police said the burglars entered the building through a window on the south side.

The television set was valued at $146 and the tape player at $96. Also $20 in change was taken, police said.

Six cartons of cigarettes valued at $21 were taken from Jimmerson's Service Station, 703 W. Malone Ave., between 10 p.m. Thursday and 6:50 a.m. today.

The thieves apparently entered the building through a front window which they broke out, police said.

New inspection set at county landfill

BENTON --Rick L. Roberts, chief of solid waste techinical services in the Bureau of Solid Waste Management, informed the Scott County Court Thursday that another inspection of the county's sanitary landfill north of Morley will be conducted Sept. 16 to determine if an effort has been made to operate under an approved plan.

The County Court had received a warning Monday that if the landfill fails to meet state requirements with in a reasonable amount of time, it will be closed. The warning was issued after state officials accompanied members of the County Court to the landfill site and determined that it was being operated improperly. "The court needs to make up its mind to start operating the landfill by the approved plans," said Roberts.

Presiding Judge Les Lankford told Roberts the court had taken over a bad project.

"The first man operating the landfill was James Patrick of St. Louis, who just threw up his hands. Sonny Glaus of Sikeston (the second operator— gave up, too., and we just continued operating the way they were," Lankford remarked.

According to Roberts, the approved engineer plans required

- Trees and brush that hinder operation of the landfill be removed.

- A permanent road be constructed from the existing private road to the wet weather operating area. A temporary road be extended into the bottom of the gully to provide access to the dry weather operation area. A roadway be constructed to a width of 24 feet with uphill grades limited to seven per cent and downhill to less than 10 per cent. There should not be a bridge along the roadway.

- The natural terrain provides a barrier to prevent trespassing on three sides of the property and 250 feet of woven wire fence should be constructed to prevent trespassing and to screen the site from the existing private road.

- A gate be constructed at the intersection of the permanent road and the existing private road. A second gate be constructed at the intersection of the permanent and temporary road. Information signs be located at the site entrance and along the access roads.

- A stockpile of soil be maintained for fire control and a 500 gallon water storage tank be placed at the site. Surface drainage be continued by constructing a seven-acre detention pond in the south corner of operating area -a drainage ditch be constructed in natural ground on the ridge of the west of the fill area.

- A building for office space and heated employe facilities.

- A 500 -gallon water storage tank be provided for drinking and sanitary facilities should be suitable for 30 days. It can be used for emergency fire fighting.

- A septic tank and drain field be built to provide toilet facilities.

- a 1,000 square -foot pole shed be constructed for equipment maintenance.

- The final cover of the landfill have a minimum thickness of two feet of clean well compacted soil, a daily cover of minimum of six inches and intermediate cover approximately one foot thick.

- Provision be made for wet weather operation in two smaller gullies located in the southeast quadrant of the initial operating area. In wet weather, trucks dump their loads from the turn around area of the bottom.

"I think part of the problem the court is having in abiding by these regulations is they do not know what they have agreed to do," Roberts said.

Roberts said previous owners did not develop the work road to the dry area of the landfill because of large sand pockets. The timber has not been completely cleared away and a retention pond has not been constructed below the site.

The court said it does not have a rat problem at the landfill but does have a problem with snakes and knows of a few rattlesnakes at the site.

Roberts told the Court he wanted the refuse at the site covered as soon as possible. "You may need to operate two dozers at the site for a year," he commented.

Louie Hirschowitz, second district associate judge, said if the court is going to make these many improvements at the landfill it would need more money .. and suggested a tax increase as a possible solution.

Eldon Ziegenhorn, first district associated judge, said the landfill should operate all day Saturday and shut down on Sundays, after Roberts informed the court it needed a man at the site at all times it is in operation.

Lankford replied that if the landfill was closed, people would start dumping trash along the roadside again.

The court members indicated to Roberts it may submit another application to the Missouri Division of Health for approval.

Roberts said the landfill was first inspected in September of 1973 and at that time the operator, Raymond Glaus of Sikeston, was subleasing it from the court. But, according to Glaus, he was leasing the site at the time from Kenny Dement and Keith Ziegenhorn of Sikeston.

IN THE NICK
OF TIME

Freedom- loving Americans can breathe a sigh of relief that at the very last moment, and in response to an outraged Congress, the U. S. Department of Commerce moved to restrict sales of highly sophisticated electronic crime detection and police equipment to the Communist dictatorship ruling Russia and the captive nations. Nevertheless, the chilling incident serves as a frightening example of how the Reds hope to exploit the "Spirit of Detente." And it leaves some nagging questions concerning the policies of Secretary of State Kissinger.

Credit must go to Washington news reporter Sam Jaffe, who first broke the story (on July 7) in the Chicago Tribune and to Representative Charles Vanik of Ohio who called the matter to the attention of Congress on July 9. Jaffe had revealed that a Moscow trade show, called "Krimtehnika 74" was scheduled for August 18 to 28, and that United States manufacturers and distributors of police equipment and crime laboratory devices had been invited to participate.

It came as a shock to many to learn that, according to a Commerce Department official questioned at the time, "there are no regulations against manufacturers of police equipment sending their goods to Communist countries" — a situation which, happily, has now been corrected. But even more shocking was the declaration by Commerce that they were aware of the proposed Kremlin deal, but that they had been "advised" by the State Department that "we take a hands- off position if any American businessman contacted us concerning the show." Does "detente," in the eyes of Mr. Kissinger, mean that the United States must actively support the Soviet Secret Police in their oppression of the Russian and captive nations' people?

Interesting, too, is the report by newsman Jaffe that the Kremlin- KGB deal was being engineered here by an outfit calling itself the Welt International Corp. of Chicago. We have no knowledge whatsoever of the identity of the people connected with this company; but all Americans can but feel a sense of shame that there are some in our midst who apparently don't care how low they stoop to make money.

A reader asked a good question after we has published a list of a few of the uses Washington spenders put to the taxpayer's dollar:

"But how is a taxpayer's dollar divided if it should be applied to the tax dollar as a whole?"

So we referred to an official government document called "The U. S. Budget in Brief" which has a chart showing the division this way:

--Benefit payments to individuals, 37 cents.

--Grants or payments to states and localities, 17 cents.

--National defense, 29 cents.

--Interest on the national debt, 7 cents.

--All other Federal operations, 10 cents.

Add it up and it comes to your tax dollar.

But the fact is that your tax dollar, or tax revenue as a whole, isn't the real cause of our fiscal troubles. The government borrows money nearly every year to pay its debts. That is what is known as deficit spending.

Sen. Carl Curtis of Nebraska says it is this deficit spending that is largely to blame for inflation. And the Senator has suggested a solution. He has introduced a proposed Senate Joint Resolution calling for a proposed amendment to impose a mandatory surtax every year to bring about a balanced budget.

It would work automatically and would take another slice of the tax dollar to make up any deficit that occurs.

You can be sure there would be a lot more resistance to charge account spending by Congress if this were done. The folks back home, paying the bills, would see to that.

"There is a paradox in the fact that," comments Mr. Walter B. They cannot have it both ways. They cannot ask more and more government intervention in what ought to be a free market and still insist on more and more freedom for themselves as individuals. No people have ever preserved political liberty for very long in an environment of economic dictatorship. We often learn too late that freedom is indivisible."

* * *

All of which leads us to believe that more and more people are beginning to catch onto the fact that uncontrolled federal spending is the big fire under inflation. Since this is an election year, heads may roll at the polls if Congress continues to lie down on the job of reforming its own spending habits and way of doing business.

THIRTEEN
MISTAKES

It was back in 1914.

And a California judge was musing over the mistakes of life.

He was on the California State Supreme Court and had seen much tragedy passing before him, in his years on the bench.

He summed it up in "thirteen mistakes."

Here they are, just as true today, as they were in 1914:

1. To attempt to set up your own standard of right or wrong

2. To try to measure the enjoyment of others by your own

3. To expect uniformity of opinion of this world

4. To fail to make allowance for inexperience

5. To endeavor to mold dispositions alike

6. Not to yield in unimportant trifles

7. To look for perfection in our own actions

8. To worry ourselves and others about what cannot be remedied

9. Not to help everybody, wherever, however, and whenever we can

10. To consider anything impossible that we can't perform ourselves

11. To believe only what our not infinite minds can grasp

12. Not to make allowances for weakness of others

13. To estimate by some outside quality while it is that within which makes thyman

WORTH A
TRY ANYWAY

With hog prices rocketing downward during recent months because of a reported over-supply in the nation, the NFO announced and put into effect a plan for its members to each sell 5% of their small feeder pigs, for export purposes. That takes them off the future local eating size pork markets of hogs of from 200 to 250 pounds.

The NFO says it has contracts with packers to buy, slaughter and process them, then ship them abroad, with the heads on, for foreign spit-type cooking.

It seemed to work, according to reports. At one collection point in mid-June, more than 2,000 were sold, at another, just under 1,200 head went.

Reports were that the day after the first of the "baby hog" sales, prices for fat hogs jumped 50 cents and after the second they took another jump.

This week the plan was used at the Hunnewell collection point.

If the plan works, all well and good, say NFO members. If it doesn't, no producer has lost much, because the prices were already so low there wasn't much to lose.

It sounds like a good plan for helping to regulate local supply and local demand, and if enough participate, will probably work.

Along with everyone else in the hog producing areas, we hope it does.

CHALLENGING
GOVERNOR BOND

We were glad to see State Treasurer James Sapainhower come out last week in opposition to Governor Christopher Bond's illegal attempt to "pack" the various state boards by removing appointees to those boards before their terms had expired.

Until Mr. Spainhower's attack, it had seemed as if the Democratic power structure of the State was not going to challenge Mr. Bond's violation of the State Constitution and of the intention of the Legislature and the voters.

By the thinnest threads of logic, Mr. Bond and his cohort in the Attorney General's office, Mr. Danforth, concluded that the new state reorganization, which went into effect July 1, created all-new agencies at the state level. This, they said, voided the terms of all previous appointees to governing boards, and gave Bond the right to name his own men to these posts.

The Courts will hopefully be asked now to determine whether Bond acted within the law and the Constitution in his power grab.

If the Court gives any weight at all to the intent of the framers of the reorganization law, it would have to declare Bond's action null and void.

There is a clearly established constitutional premise that appointments to state boards be on a staggered basis, in order to prevent undue influence by one governor over the commissions and boards which control the operations of state agencies.

In the case of the Departments of Conservation and of Highways, there is a clear constitutional mandate that these agencies be kept out of politics. The Department of Education has traditionally been in the same position.

By his ill-advised action, the Governor now seeks to overturn the independence of these agencies — and that was not the intention of the Legislature or of the voters in adopting the statewide reorganization amendment and enabling legislation.

Two of Warren Hearnes' appointees — Robert DeLaney on the Conservation Commission, and W. Clifton Banta Sr. on the State Board of Education — have in effect been fired by the Governor by his appointment of new men effective July 1.

Mr. DeLaney seems to think his replacement was due to his unwillingness to allow the Governor's office to dictate policy to the Conservation Commission. Why the Governor would replace Mr. Banta, who has done a good job as a member and President of the Board of Education, is a matter of some conjecture.

We agree with Mr. Spainhower that the Governor should withdraw his illegal appointments to these boards, and permit the former appointees to serve out the terms to which they were named.

If the Governor refuses to do so, then the Senate should refuse to confirm the appointment of the Bond men, and the Democratic Party should file suit to have Bond's interpretation of the new law overturned.

MORE FRAGILE
THAN WE THINK

The chief executive officer of Time, Incorporated, Mr. Andrew Heiskell, recently delivered a commencement Address at Hofstra University. The subject of his talk was freedom of speech -- and the press. The bulk of his remarks dealt directly with public attitudes and government strictures that he feels pose a threat to the free press as we have known it in the United States. He noted with concern a public opinion survey that showed "... an astonishing 55 per cent of the American public did not think that the press even in time of peace had the right to report any story the government felt harmful to the national interest." He added, "If that survey accurately reflects public opinion, we are in trouble, for we have forgotten the fundamental values upon which this nation was founded."

There is no question that the press has its shortcomings; but, on the whole, the American public, through its free press, is better informed and thus better armed against oppression than virtually any other nation on earth. Mr. Heiskell noted the results of a study conducted by the Freedom of Information Center at the University of Missouri. "That study", he commented, "determined that less than one half of the world had a free press ... Weighing negative factors that ranged from direct government control to concentrated ownership, from organized self-regulation to highly restrictive libel laws, the study concluded that only 16 nations -- one of them the United States -- could be rated 'free to a high degree'. Since then, a free press has practically disappeared in most of Latin American. Those results indicate that a free ... press may be more fragile and ... unique than we like to think." Of all our freedoms, nothing lies closer to the heart of liberty itself than a free press.

CONSPIRACY OF SILENCE

A conspiracy of silence seems to afflict a large area of the consumer protection movement. Emphasis has been on demanding laws that hold manufacturers solely accountable for the quality and safety of products. No consumer protector has questioned the hazards to consumers that arise from faulty workmanship—something wholly apart from faulty engineering or poor design. No consumer protector has a word to say about the danger to consumers of overly protective union rules that make it impossible for management to discipline or control the inefficient workers.

The president of the Southern State Industrial Council remarks that, "If management could exercise some control over its hiring, wage and disciplinary policies, a lot less shoddy merchandise would reach the consumer. And if pride of craftesmanship were still present in the American industrial scene, it is the consumer who would benefit." The consumerist conspiracy of silence, with regard to the rising gravity of the problem of worker indifference, makes suspect the strident consumer protection campaigns.

HEARNES' 'BULGE'

The column by Jack Flach appearing July 13-14, concerning the financial crisis faced by Gov. Bond after only 18 months in office, contained the following: "Hearnes didn't leave his successor, Bond, the bulge that Dalton had left Hearnes."

The balance in the state treasury as of Dec. 31, 1964 was $122 million plus. The balance in the state treasury as of Dec. 31, 1972, was $123 million plus.

"Quality of Life" versus Sanctity of Life

The increasing talk about the importance of the "quality of life" is unfortunately all too often a cover -up for something much more sinister. This phrase is often used to mean that if a life isn't of "high quality" then it should not exist. In other words, our laws should be changed to legalize "euthanasia" for the very old, the very ill, the deformed and the retarded.

In the words of Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Willke of Cincinnati: "Quite simply, this judgment says that a human life should not be permitted to continue if that human life does not measure up to a certain degree of mental perfection and/or is not independent and useful to those around him, including the state. This is an absolutely frightening concept."

Perhaps what is most frightening is that legalizing euthanasia would give the state absolute power over life and death. If a person is too old to make a "contribution" to society, he could be eliminated. If a child is deemed to have serious mental retardation or physical handicaps, then he would not be allowed to live.

This goes against the Christian heritage of our country. In addition, many people can tell of the great rewards that have come to families which lovingly cared for a retarded or handicapped child or a very ill or elderly person.

We must not allow ourselves to be fooled by propanganda for the "quality of life." We must stand firmly for the value of every human. life. HLH

JACK ANDERSON SAYS;
Ford Searches for Missing Evidence Linking Rockefeller to Watergate

WASHINGTON —President Gerald Ford has been searching for seven elusive boxes of Watergate documents which he fears may contain damaging information about former Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

Until a few weeks ago, it appeared certain the boxes had been burned on orders of Nixon campaign aides prior to the 1972 presidential elections. But during the past week, as Ford mulled over his choice for the vice presidency, his "transition team" quietly sought the missing cartons.

Their purpose: to make absolutely sure that there is no Agnew scandal in Ford's future.

According to sworn testimony the boxes, containing an estimated 7,000 documents, were destroyed. But new reports suggest they may have been cached instead in a locked vault. The reports are now considered firm enough to have brought the special Watergate prosecutor into the probe.

The hearsay evidence in their possession, which is similar to that reaching Ford, is that Rockefellller helped bankroll a standby team of Nixon toughs for the 1972 Democratic convention. The ex 0New York governor's office had denied the charge as "absolutely untru" and offered to open the campaign books to prove it is false.

The boxes, once in the custody of Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt, were hauled away by a Nixon loyalist named Roy Sheppard after the Watergate break -in of June 1972.

In August 1972, we came within an ace of getting them through Sheppard's lawyer, who was troubled about their hidden secrets.

But Sheppard adamantly refused to give them up. He later testified that he had burned them in his frunace on orders of Nixon campaign aides. There the matter stood until a month ago.

At that time, we received reports that Sheppard had not burned the papers and once again we tried to find them. Ford's "transition team" also heard of the documents and assigned a crack lawyer to track them down.

The lawyer worked throught last weekend chasing clues. He satisfied himself there as at least a slim chance the boxes exist, although neither he nor anyone else was sure what they might contain.

Acting on White House orders, the lawyer immediately turned his clues over to assistant special prosecutor Richard Ben -Veniste, who quickly re -opened the investigation. Ben -Veniste has now been given the name of the town where the boxes are supposedly located. He also has clues to the identification of the alleged custodian of the boxes, provided by one of Sheppard's friends, Hal O'Brien.

At O'Brien's urging. we have learned, the special prosecutor intends to give Sheppard immunity from prosecution if the boxes are found intact.

Footnote: Actually, the special prosecutor is not as interested in the Rockefeller material as he is in other rumored contents of the boxes. Reportedly, there is evidence of Mafia campaign influence and answers to other unresolved Watergate questions. Sheppard, when asked about the boxes by my associate Les Whitten, said, "I don't know what you're talking about."

FIREARMS FRACAS: The Treasury Department's firearm regulators got caught with their powder wet by Rep. Mike Harrington, D -Mass.

Harrington, who wants to ban all private handguns, accused Treasury's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms of using faulty figures to show that 70 per cent of pistols used by criminals are cheap "Saturday Night Specials."

This figure plays right into the hands of the big domestic gun manufacturers who want the public to believe that costlier weapons aren't often used in crimes. Exactly the opposite is true.

Harrington complained to the bureau's director, Rex Davis, that such phony figures make it look like banning Saturday Night Specials will end the slaughter on America's streets. Davis promised to "re -examine the figures."

Actually, the figures were known to be wrong from the start, as we now know from a secret memo directly from the bureau's own files.

"If you will but recall," wrote Davis' deputy, William Thompson, to the bureau's public affairs chief, Warren McConnell, "I challenged the process by which (the figures) were reached at the time."

The statistics, wrote Thompson, contained "built -in errors (and) items which are inaccurate or incorrect." The report "does a disservice to the bureau as well as to the public," he snapped.

"It gives me no pleasure to say, "I told you so,"' wrote Thompson. "Quite the contrary, I hope that we will be able to prove our figures... are very nearly perfect."

But, Thompson concluded, "the hastily taken shortcut has ..cast doubt upon our credibility." Meanwhile, Director Davis, unaware that Harrington already has the secret memo, has written it will be "about two weeks" before he can fully answer Harrington.

POAGE PRESSURE: Autocratic House Agriculture Chairman Bob Poage, D -Tex., is privately pressuring members of the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee to gut two bills protecting streams and wetlands.

Poage wants to open up 150,000 miles of waterways to the bulldozers so his fatcat farmer and land developer friends can get rich. The taxpayer would foot the bill for the destruction of marsh, streams and rivers where wildlife and fish have been breeding for centuries.

Inside Labor

by Victor Riesel

Austrian Labor-Management 'Social Partnership' Ends Industrial Wars; Clamps Down Inflation

VIENNA — They waltz well together in this hard- working city because once the men of power on all sides almost were hung together by the Nazis. Amid pain and ghastly death in the same concentration camp some 35 years ago, they learned the hard way the futility of social, economic, political and machine-gun civil war when they had their freedom. They lost it. Regained it. Now they worship it and don't try to bludgeon each other, neither the unions nor the employers.

I've just left Chancellor Bruno Kreisky in the Austrian counterpart of the White House Oval Room. We had talked for an hour in the very same office where exactly 40 years ago Christian Democrat Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss had been gunned down by a Nazi killer -- not many days after his own forces had killed Social Democrats and unionists barricaded in public housing projects which were their last bastions.

Chancellor Kreisky and I had talked about the world's No. 1 problem -- inflation, prices, the fight against the common enemy, the high cost of living, the survival of all free nations, the common stand against bankruptcy.

From this conversation and from talks with the highest management executives and with strong man Anton Banya, who is at the same time president of the Austrian Federation of Labor, the Parliament, and chairman of the Metal and Mine Workers Union, I learned that all sides trust each other.

Since 1957 they have worked cooperatively on something they call their Economic and Social Partnership.

Basically, this is an appeal to reason by the leaders of both sides and the government to their own constituencies on wages, prices and economic policies -- for the good of their country.

It has worked. There are virtually no strikes, Last year, the private sector lost only 107,000 man-hours. Infinitesimal! There was a long teachers' strike. But the industrial and commercial sectors were quiet. Yet wages went up so that the cost of living was met. There is a formula which gives the workers 3 per cent more in real wages after "meeting" the increased cost of living.

Obviously here I can give only a simplified version of their system. It's the spirit that counts. It's based on solid technical organization, however.

There is a lesson for us, the giant nation, to learn from tiny Austria, which is more then whipped cream, Sacher Tortes, The Merry Widow waltz and skiing. We could do well by creating what they did -- the Parity Commission on Wages and Prices. It consists of four groups which work with the government.

On it are the Austrian Federation of Labor (sort of the AFL-CIO), the Chamber of Labor (roughly, a miniature labor department), the Employers: Association and an Agricultural Council. They meet monthly with the Chancellor to discuss the economic good of their nation -- though their politics differ sharply.

There are three subcommissions, one on wages, another on prices and the third on social welfare. In theory, often in practice, manufacturers and merchants who want to raise their prices go to the price commission and argue for increases. Their own national business leaders ponder the impact on the country. They really can't veto the price hike but there is a "gun on the table." If a producer or farmer rejects "constraining" advice on moderation, the government can freeze prices for six months.

As for wages, the unions can't demand the renegotiation of their (open-ended) contracts without permission of the subcommission on wages. If they disclose they're going to ask for sky-high increases, Benya says, cool it. Or they can't reopen. Despite the grandeur of the Austrian countryside this isn't heaven on earth, so there are bugs in the system. But it works.

This Economic and Social Partnership works so well that there is overemployment. Austria, a nation with a unionized membership of 1.5 million has had to import over 200,000 foreign workers because all available Austrian employes are just not enough to go round even with the doubling and tripling of moonlight jobs.

As one highly placed management leader, Junata Kottulinsky, head of the Association of Austrian Industries, put it: "We're not perfect. We survive because both sides listen to reason more often than go wild."

He recalled that when the labor-Social Democrat coalition won absolute parliamentary control from the People's Party (Christian Democrats) in 1970 (and 1971) Benya visited the industrial leaders.

"Look," said the powerful politico- labor chief (proportionately far more than George Meany), "we will not take advantage of our new parliamentary strength. When you fellows controlled the government you did not push us around. Now we will be reasonable and not use our new parliamentary power to hurt you."

This is Economic and Social Partnership. It is in keeping with the vow they made to each other in the Nazi concentration camp always to work together despite political adn economic differences, to preserve freedom if they survived.

Giant America could learn from little Austria. Or do we have to be hit by the Apocalypse first?

What's the law?

The case of the broken promise

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Herman pursued the political path but, instead of leading to the gravy, it lead to a dead end. He had worked industriously and with great determination to help elect Sincere Sam mayor on the latter's promise that , if elected, Herman would be appointed to a city job. After the election, however, the newly installed mayor wouldn't even give poor old Herman a jog as dog catcher.

Outraged, Herman sued "His Honor" for fraud and deceit.

"He lied to me," complained Herman to a judge. "He never intended to give me a job. He only intended to trick me into working for him for nothing. Before the election, he was always shaking my hand. Afterwards, he was always trying to shake me."

"Nonsense," was the mayor's answer. "He didn't work for me. He worked for the glory of the party. I just happened to be its candidate. And while Herman's efforts in my behalf have earned him my gratitude, that's all he had a right to expect."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold "His Honor" liable for breaking his promise to Herman?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that, under the law, a candidate's promise tor reward a person with a political job in exchange for his campaign efforts is against public policy and void. Consequently, concluded the judge, while he was sympathetic to Herman's situation, there was nothing he could do for him.

Tapered white candles, held in an arrangement of pixie carnations and greenery, were in each window. Pew ends were decorated with spring bouquets, and the parents' pews were marked with pink ribbon bows.

The bride's table was overlaid with a soft, pink, satin, floor- length cloth draped with pink net held with satin bows and pink pixie carnations.

A three-tiered wedding cake centered the table and was surrounded with pink and white carnations. The ends of the table held a silver coffee service and cut glass punch bowl. Nuts and mints were served from silver trays, and the wedding candles were held in silver candle holders.

A rehearsal buffet was hosted by the groom's family in the church dining room.

The way everyone talks about recycling you'd think it was something new. Big deal. Our family has been doing it for years.

We never throw anything away ... clothes, furniture, appliances, toys, canning jars, maternity clothes ... cars ... we just call up the family and say, "I'm weeding out my treasures so if you want to look through before I give them the pitch" ... and before you can hang up there are 30 cars in the driveway.

More junk has been reprieved from the jaws of the Goodwill and Salvation Army than anyone wants to admit.

When I was first married it wasn't unusual for me to drop the phone and head for the car shouting, "Pat is getting rid of her hot water heater." My husband said I clocked more hours in a U-Haul than I did in my marriage bed.

There wasn't anything too tacky to be used again. A maternity dress with a knot in the drawstring ... a sleeping bag without a zipper ... a freezer that heated up ... a washer with parts available only behind the Iron Curtain ... a dress that could be worn and used to dust the piano at the same time ... a pair of boots with a hole in the sole ... all were goodies that we fought over like feeding time at the zoo.

I guess nothing generated more excitement than when one member of the family bought something new. I recall when my Aunt Louise bought a new chair, everyone moved up a chair. Her daughter inherited her old chair that had survived three cats in diapers. With the cat chair, her chair with the faded slipcover went to my mother.

Mother's chair with the grease stains from Dad's hair dressing went to my sister. Her chair with the spring that came through the cushions came to me and my chair with the rip in the cording went to my cousin, Virginia. Her chair ... well, all in all, 15 people played the game of musical chairs.

The handing down of clothes was probably worse. Wearing a discarded dress out was like going to a Hollywood wedding. It was risky to make any comment as everyone at one time or another had had custody of the dress.

The other day I collected a large pile of stuff in the garage. "I think the economy is worse in this country than it has ever been before," I said to my husband.

"What makes you say that?"

"Look at the quality of this junk," I said picking up a Nehru jacket.

"This stuff looks familiar," he said.

"It should," I sighed. "It's EXACTLY the same pile of junk I offered 10 years ago and now it has all come back full cycle. I don't know what the world is coming to."

Swat better than pinch as disciplinary method

Dear Ann Landers: I need some help before I blow my top and clobber my husband publicly. The problem we are having concerns the disciplining of our children.

I believe in firm guidelines and punighment. (Our youngsters are all under eight years of age.) It seems to me a swat on the seat at the appropriate moment conveys the message. But my husband believes in pinching --and I mean the kind of pinch that leaves black -and -blue marks.

When our children misbehave in public and their father moves toward them, they cling to me, frightened and tearful. He then gets mad at me and says I am undermining his authority. The last time he pinched one of the kids was in church. The screaming disrupted the services and I was embarrassed to death.

I say his behavior is sick. Your comments would be appreciated. -Upset In Sioux Falls

Dear Up: Pinching is a preadolescent response to anger. That husband of yours sounds like a case of arrested development. I agree that a swat on the back porck should do the job (but not in church, please) -and the pinching has got to go.

Dear Ann Landers: Summer means vacation to most people, but to others it means one clump of relatives after another, more work and higher food bills. I've seen plenty of letters in your column about sponging vacationers, but I've never seen my problem.

Will you please tell how some people have the nerve to come "for a few days" after having visited other friends and relatives, and the first thing they do after the initial hug and hello is to ask, "Where's the washer and dryer?"

This happens to me repeatedly and I can't understand it. One couple had been traveling for ten days and they were heading home after a weekend with us. They brought three suitcases full of dirty laundry. Mrs. Clean washed and ironed every soiled item before she left.

I can see why it be necessary to rinse out a few things, but everything?

Am I wrong to think this is rude and inconsiderate? Don't they know detergent, bleach and electricity aren't free --not to mention the time taken from visiting? I love company, but running a free laundromat isn't my bag. Tell'em , Ann, They might listen to you. --Washed Out

Dear Washed: Since no guests have ever done their laundry at my house, I don't need to "tell'em." You, however, should speak up the minute someone asks, "Where's the washer and dryer?" Just say, "This is a vacation, dear. Do your work when you get home." And make it stick.

Dear Ann Landers: I was amazed to read your remarks chastising the person who used the expression "deaf and dumb." You suggested instead, "deaf and mute."

This is to tell you we don't care much for "deaf and mute" either. Actually, very few deaf people are mute. Some of us speak with difficulty and are not easily understood, but about 99 44/100ths of the deaf people can (and do) say "ouch" when they are pinched. So, please tell your readers that we may be deaf, sometimes silent, often quiet, but practically never mute. --F.S. (Nat'l. Assn. Of The Deaf, Silver Springs, Md.)

Dear F.S.: Now I'm saying "ouch" and I offer my humble apologies. One thing is certain. Deaf people might not hear, but they certainly do read --and boy, do they write!

Planning a wedding? What's right? What's wrong? Ann Landrs' completely new "The Bride's Guide" will relieve your anxiety. To receive a copy, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self -addressed, stamped envelope (20 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

Dear Sir:

Clerical Double

Standard

The Christian clergymen who administer Church World Service have said no to the Rev. Dr. Eugen Stockwell's well -publicized call for the agency to get out and promote social change. Stockwell, a National Council of Churches official, had wanted the group to stop emphasizing the palliation of misery and suffering and instead "to try to get at root causes and foster long -term initiatives for justice." The clerics replied that the agency "is not in the business of promoting violent revolutionary change."

Poor Dr. Stockwell; left out in the cold. But not without scope, really, for implementing his convictions. What if Stockwell and the rest of the socially conscious Christian clergy followed the lead of American Jews, who are currently waging a determined struggle in behalf of their co-religionists in the Soviet Union? The Jews try, in howsoever limited fashion, to exert social and economic pressure on the Kremlin, that the lot of Soviet Jews might be lightened.

Meanwhile, what do the Christian clergymen of the National Council of Churches do in behalf of Russian Christians, of whom there are many? (Solzhenitsyn, for example.) Do the clergymen ask that prayers be offered in Christian churches for the plight of Russian Christians? Does the council pressure congressment to pressure the President to pressure Chairman Brezhnev, that Christians in Russia may be better treated?

Of course not. To all appearances, the NCC couldn't care less what happens in the Soviet Union.

Ah, but Spain, Greece, Chile, Brazil -there is where the council long has thought the action was. No enemies to the left! So heap brimstone and coals of fire on the tyrants of the right. But those tyrants, whatever their sins, at least have created no Gulag Archipelago; they have not slaughtered their countrymen by the tens of millions. What of those who have? Does Dr. Stockwell wish "to try to get at root causes and foster long-term initiatives for justice" in Russia? and if not, why not?

Check asked into state milk pricing

JEFFERSON CITY --Regular meetings for consideration of various matters pending before the Missouri Public Service Commission were established Thursday.

The commission will hold the meetings daily at 9 a.m. in the office of chairman James F. Mauze, effective Monday. The duration of the meetings, which will be open to the public, will be determined by the number of matters to be considered.

"The commission believes that setting meetings on a regular schedule will expedite its work," Mauze said. "These meetings will be apart from the commission's public hearings on cases, which will continue to be scheduled in advance with notice to the public."

The findings of fact and conclusions of law on which the commission bases its decisions, and the votes of the individual commissioners will, as before, continue to be printed in the commission's orders.

Mauze said persons who wish to participate in commission cases or want to testify in hearings also may still contact either Michael F. Pfaff, commission counsel, or James Crenshaw, public counsel, with the Department of Consumer Affairs, Regulation and licensing.

The address and telephone number of the commission counsel are P.O. Box 360, Jefferson City 65101 and 751-2412, and of the public counsel, 505 Missouri Blvd,. Jefferson City 65101, and 751 -4114.

PSC sets regular meetings

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — An executive of the Mid-America Dairymen Cooperative, the largest milk coop operating in Missouri, today called for an investigation into the possibility of state control of milk pricing.

While admitting that open competition would be the best thing for the milk industry, Gary Hanman, senior cooperative vice president, told a joint legislative committee that circumstances in Missouri make consideration of milk price regualtion appropriate.

Hanman told the 10-member House-Senate committee, which is looking into problems facing state agriculture, especially milk and livestock production, that it has a "resposibility to exert its power to insure that American farmers are not put at a disadvantage."

"Drought problems together with the corn shortage and milk imports from other countries has put our dairy farmers in a very tight bind," Hanman said.

He made seven recommendations to the committee, several seeking state assistance in convincing the federal government to take action to help dairy farmers.

Hanman called for review of federal milk orders and other federal procedures concerning the dairy industry.

Speaking critically of enforcement and some procedures of the state Agriculture Department in connection with the 1959 Unfair Milk Sales Practices Act, Hanman urged re-examination of the law "to determine if it is applicable to the needs of today's environment."

He also called for an increase in the federal government's parity price for milk to the maximum 90 per cent, pointing out that price supports offered by foreign countries to their dairy farmers are significantly higher than those given American dairymen.

"Our dairy farmers don't object to competing on a world basis," Hanman said in calling for import quotas and the use of countervailing duty charges on foreign milk with high government price supports. "If we can make competition open—no subsidies, no supports—we can complete."

Fredrick bound over to Circuit Court on deadly weapons, assault charges

BLOOMFIELD –Eugene Fredrick, 28, of Dexter was bound over to Circuit Court Thursday, following a preliminary hearing in Magistrate Court before Judge Koss W. Blomeyer.

Fredrick is charged with displaying a deadly weapon against Jimmy Moore, an agent for the state department of liquor control, and felonious assault against special agent Vermont Johnson. Fredrick, is also charged with a third count of selling intoxicating beverages without a license.

Co -defendent's in the case, Lavaughn Baker, 32, of Dexter was granted a change of venue and Larry Gadberry, 27, of Overland had his charges reduced to common assault.

Witnesses called by the state included special agent Vermont Johnson who testified that on the night of Aug. 3, the three agents went to a tavern in Dexter owned by Lloyd Aarant after receiving a report that the tavern had been selling liquor after closing time. Johnson said he checked the front door of the tavern after discovering lights burning in the tavern at 1:45 a.m. After receiving no response at the front door, he then drove to the alley and checked the rear door. At this time, he was approached by Fredrick who asked him if he was looking for some beer. He replied that he was and Fredrick said he would sell him a six pack for $5. He said Fredrick then set the beer on the trunk of the agents car and Johnson paid him the $5. Johnson said he then produced his badge and identified himself and told Fredrick he was under arrest for selling beer without a license. Fredrick then hit Johnson, knocking him to the ground, and then proceeded to attack agent Jimmy Moore with a knife. Lavaughn Baker then appeared and began striking Johnson while he was still on the ground from the blow received from Fredrick. Johnson said he received several blows to the facial area and suffered a broken nose.

The second witness called was agent Jimmy Moore, who testified that Fredrick came at him with a knife after he had identified himself and proceeded to take back the beer sold to the agents. He said a woman, Elaine Scowden, ran between Moore and Fredrick and told Moore if he would put away his gun, Fredrick would drop his knife. He said he put the gun away and Fredrick then dropped the knife. When asked where he obtained the gun, Moore replied the gun was given to him earlier by special agent Vermont Johnson, when Johnson left another Dexter night club after he suspected that the club operators were suspicous of him being an agent. He said the gun was given to him because of the kind of customers which patronize this particular club.

The third witness, agent Richard Erwin of Perkins, testified that Gadberry did not take part in the actual fighting but blocked the car to prevent the agents from getting help.

In another case, trial or John Wayne Riggins, charged with common assault and disturbing the peace was reset for Sept. 26. Riggins is being held in Memphis, Tenn. on other charges.

Charges of stealing more than $50 were dismissed against Margaret Bender of Ark., upon payment of cost.

Loren Teets of Bernie entered a plea of guilty to writing an insufficient funds check and was given a 30 -day suspended jail sentence.

Cases continued included Gearld Freed, driving while intoxicated, and Winfred O Skaggs Jr. of Puxico, tampering with a motor vehicle.

Clarence H. Smith and Rickey Allen Traughber of Bernie were finded $50 each on charges of possession of intoxicating beverages by a minor.

David L. Wheetley of Puxico was fined $100 on charges of driving while intoxicated. Paul L. Wheetley was fined $50 for possession of intoxicating beverages by a minor.

Fined for traffic violations were, James Milton Young of Sikeston, speeding, $18; David Lee Baker of Malden, speeding, $15; William Earl Fallowell of Bernie, permitting an unauthorized person to operate a motor vehicle, $10; Mickey Gail Patrick of Bloomfield, speeding, $12; and David Lee Qualls of Dexter, no operator's license in possession and Missouri resident with out of state plates, $10 on each charge.

Trial was set for Sept. 5, for Howard Hensley, who entered a plea of not guilty to careless and imprudent driving.

Six arrested

Police today announced four arrests including Betty Louise Smith, 511 W. Market St., Charleston, two counts of petit larceny; Jackie Ann Smith, 511 W. Market St., Charleston , two counts of petit larceny.

Allen Louis Howard, 801 Delmar, St., improper registration; Michael Lee Hixon, 411 Illinois, Ave., speeding; Frank Burney S. Venice, Ill. tampering with a motor vehicle; Riley Hue Gross, 222 Fuch, peace disturbance, assault and battery, petit larceny.

Dexter plans airport work

DEXTER -The Dexter Airport Board is planning more than $500,000 in improvements at the municipal airport on Highway 114 East. The improvements will be aimed at improving the runway facilities.

"We're hoping to do $500,000 to $600,000 worth of improvements in the fiscal year 1975," Willard Brown, board chairman, said. The improvements would be contingent on receipt of a federal matching funds grant so that Dexter's share of the total cost would be only about one -sixth.

"The first major improvements would be to the north -south runway, the taxiways, and the lighting," Dr. Robert Boon, board secretary, said. He said there are cracks in runway and weeds growing through them.

Tentatively, the runway would be resurfaced. It requires a heavy asphalt surface and it would be crowned for drainage.

The expense of resurfacing a runway is so great because of its size and the necessity of using a thick surface. The main runway is 4,500 feet by 100 feet which would be more than two miles of city street. The taxiway is as long but half as wide, plus there are crossovers.

"We could spend $1 million to a $1.5 million very easily," Joe Weber, board member, said. He gave as examples lengthening the runways and building a control tower.

There is a diagonal runway at the municipal airport, in addition to the main one. It is the same size but not lighted.

All the needed improvements will be included in a "master airport plan" which the board has commissioned to be developed by a Sikeston engineering firm of Buchmueller, Whitworth and Foust.

The federal government requires a master plan before granting funds for improvements. The board will receive federal matching funds to help pay for the plan which can cost several thousands of dollars.

"It is basicallly a long range plan in relation to the airport," Brown said. "You must have a master plan first. Supposely when they (the engineers) get through, we'll have a plan for the next 20 -25 years.

The plan will include a survey of the city. The survey will indicate how to take care of the city's future needs, based on industrial and population growth trends.

Environmental needs will be accounted for in the plan, and are in fact one of the major reasons for a master plan. Airport improvements must be designed so as not to upset the environment.

The board hopes to have the master plan in their hands withing the next 90 days. Then, they can proceed to plan for major improvements.

The city's share of the major improvements and paying for the master plan will be paid for out of profits from a city -owned farm operated by the airport board. The farm surrounds the airport and is share -cropped.

"We get no city monies at all," Dr. Boon said, The 600 acres of crops provide most of the profit for the airport operation. The airport itself generates very littly revenue.

The unusual farm situation allows the airport to run without being subsidized from the city general fund. The farm profits will allow the airport board to make improvements without calling for a bond issue.

Council keeps same tax rate at Bloomfield

BLOOMFIELD --The city council Thursday night voted to set the tax rate at $2.10 per $100 assessed valuation, according to city clerk Murlin Phillips. The rate is the same as last year's. A brief meeting was held due to the absence of mayor J.C. Newcomer and one alderman.

Woman who killed husband sues to collect insurance

BENTON -A $35,000 civil suit has been filed in Scott County Circuit Court by Mrs. Vivian Holland, 40, of 1009 Henry St., Sikeston, against Life Insurance Co. of North America and Missouri Teachers Association in payment of her husband's policy.

Mrs. Holland received a suspended three -year prison sentence under supervised probation in Circuit Court July 12 in connection with the Jan. 27 shotgun slaying of her husband, George Holland.

Mrs. Holland was to have stood trial June 10 on a first -degree murder charge, but pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of manslaughter and sentencing was postponed until July 12.

Charges set forth in the suit by Mrs. Holland include:

- On March 1, 1973, George Holland was insured in the amount of $25,000 by Life Insurance Co. of North America.

- On Jan. 27, 1974, Holland died and at that time Mrs. Holland was named beneficiary on the insurance policy , and has complied with all conditions and provisions of the policy.

- A reasonable time after the death of Holland she gave the insurance company due notice and proof of the death and demanded from them the payment of $25,000 provided by the policy, making the insurance company indebted to pay her the sum of $25,000 with interest from Jan. 27.

- More than 30 days have elapsed since Mrs. Holland first made the demand for payment of the policy proceeds, and the insurance company has failed and refused to pay her. The refusal was without reasonable cause and she is entitled to recover the additional sum of $2,500 for damages and $7,500 as a reasonable attorney fee.

Holland was allegedly shot while sitting at the kitchen table of their home. According to police, he was shot at close range with a 12-gauge shotgun.

The pellets entered the back just below the left shoulder blade.

5 teachers hired at Chaffee

CHAFFEE --Five new teachers have been hired for the coming year in Chaffee Public Schools which open with a full day of classes on Aug. 26.

New teachers are Mrs. Karen Rice, elementary; Mrs. Charlotte Lanpher, home economics; James Ford, industrial arts; Richard Dunn, band, and Charles Vickery, physical education and head football coach.

Superintendent Reece Brown is urging all parents this year to put forth a special effort to have their children in school regularly because of the state aid based on average daily attendance which the school district loses from high absenteeism.

Cafeteria lunch prices this year will be $1.50 weekly or 35 cents daily for pupils in grades one through six and $1.75 weekly or 40 cents daily for seventh through twelfth graders and adults.

Activity tickets will be $1.50 for first through sixth graders, $2.50 for seventh and eighth graders, $3 for ninth through twelfth graders and $6 for adults.

School insurance will be $5 for school time coverage and $15 for around the clock coverage for all pupils.

Teens accept challenge to 'Get dirty for God'

MELBOURNE, Fla. (AP) — "Get dirty for God—lay a brick" is the message some 500 teen-agers who want to be missionaries overseas are learning this summer at "the Lord's boot camp."

The youths come from all over for the two-week training program, where sponsors say they learn bricklaying, carpentry and other construction trades.

Robert Bland, director of the nondenominational Teen Mission Camp, says that after a couple of weeks of military-like discipline the youths find the transition to the poverty-stricken regions of Bolivia, Colombia, Haiti, Venezuela and Peru much easier.

"We challenge the kids to 'Get dirty for God,' to really put their faith into action," he says, adding that the young people are taught that their evangelism will be more effective if they put work first and preaching second.

They harden muscles by lugging sandbags, swinging over creeks on ropes and scaling 12-foot walls, and they learn to do without modern home conveniences.

The program started four years ago in Greenfield, Ohio, with 67 youngsters. This summer, the 500 teen-agers in the program come from 47 states, Canada and Mexico.

Bland says the young missionaries have built more than a dozen churches, youth camps, orphanages and even air strips in remote regions since the program began in 1971.

Scripture: Colossians 2:13-23

FREEDOM IN CHRIST

A Christian is not in bondage to outward rules and regulations. He has made his choice to freely accept the will of God.

This freedom in Christ removes the individual from the bondage of superstitition and speculative philosophies that deny Christ.

Paul continues here today to advise the church at Colossae about what the members could expect after they had decided to accept Christianity. To the church at Corinth he had written, "Where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is freedom."

Epictetus wrote many centuries ago that "He whose body is chained, and his soul unbound, is free." Paul was saying the same thing. When the Holy Spirit enters a person that individual's soul is now free.

Obviously the gift of freedom involves a corporate responsibility, such as Americans now read in the interpretations of our First Amendment. The press is free. Yet the press accepts responsibility in the use of this freedom.

A similar relationship between freedom and responsibility is frequently voiced by high school and college commencement speakers. Now the students are freed from classroom confinement but they have taken on a new responsibility role.

Adults don't become too upset when the younger generation demands new freedom so long as these individuals work out methods to put new ideas into operation.

Freedom is a necessary element in Christianity. God would never force His people to act against their will. God's chosen ones should acquire such characteristics as compassion, kindness, lowliness, meekness, and patience.

The Christian must constantly remind himself that he cannot use this freedom for his own selfish and immoral purposes.

Paul explains the result of this new freedom for his followers. He urges these persons to first recall their past, when they were spiritually dead. And he tells them not to overstress outward signs.

The dead are made alive in the acceptance of this freedom. Their trespasses are forgiven since Jesus died for them. God made the people alive, offering them this freedom of choice.

The law so vividly stressed in the Old Testament is to be set aside by the Christians. Jesus died to remove this penalty on us. In other words, He assumed our debt to God for our sinful living.

Paul continues to warn about the false teachers. He wrote about the Jews and Greeks with their limited views on specific eating and drinking habits.

Unfortunately, there are too many persons today who "worship" diet programs more than their worship of Christ. Paul warned about persons who permitted their minds to be dominated by the flesh.

Our soul can be content only if it exists in a spirit of freedom. Paul found it easy to turn the false teachers aside. Unfortunately, Paul found it difficult to understand why anyone encountered problems in accepting Christ.

Spiritual freedom requires us to rearrange our priority list. We need to take another look at what we consider to be essential in our daily lives.

Paul witnessed persons who were in bondage to material possessions. We still know people who have the same unChristian views today.

In offering reasons for all to accept Christ, Paul wrote about the victory of the spirit over evil. He also reminded the people that rules are temporal and will perish. We see our covets continue to shift the meanings of our laws.

We believe we are free today, but are we?

How many persons are under bondage to horoscopes? How many persons seek to solve their problems by turning to other individuals rather than to Christ?

James Madison wrote in 1785 that "It is the duty of every man to render to the Creator such homage, and such only, as he believes to be acceptable to Him."

Church group concerned about farmer's plight

NEW YORK (AP) — The farm—that remote, often ignored combination of toil and soil that provisions the nation— is seen by a band of mostly rural Christians as under a modern siege that threatens its ruin.

"The patience of rural people is nearing exhaustion," says a candid, detailed analysis of the farm situation approved last month in Roanoke, Va., by the annual conference of the Church of the Brethren.

Citing the increasingly yawning gulf between a farmer's costs and the return he gets for his crops, along with other pressures on him, the 20,000-word study says:

"Perhaps no other occupational group has been so poorly understood."

The report came at a time when various church bodies, both Protestant and Roman Catholic, are stepping up their concern about farm issues.

The Church of the Brethren, a relatively small denomination of 181,200 members, two-thirds of whose congregations are in rural areas, made its study because of trends driving farm families off the American scene.

Between 1960 and 1970, the report noted, 800,000 people left the land. Only about 2.4 million families—4.6 per cent of the total—now live on farms. Twenty years ago, the number was about 7.4 million families.

Lopsided economic trends were cited as squeezing many farmers out of business, with their costs rising 62 per cent and their taxes 290 per cent between 1950 and 1970, while prices they got for their produce rose only 6 per cent.

Meanwhile, "business and professional persons with incomes larger than farmers are bidding up prices of farmland, often as a hobby or investment," pushing up farmland prices and taxes "to a point above what a farmer can afford," the report said.

At the same time, it adds, big-scale corporate farm operations, combined with processing, has cornered 75 per cent of the market and most government subsidies, with 7 per cent of farms—the biggest ones— getting 41 per cent of subsidies.

In contrast, the 50 per cent of farms that are of smaller, family size got only 9 per cent of the subsidies—an average $225 each.

THE BIBLE

148. King David Conquers Jerusalem

It came to pass that the elders of the tribes of Israel came to Hebron, and there agreed before the Lord to anoint David king of all Israel. Then David and his men went to Jerusalem to confront the Jebusite stronghold.

Thinking that they were secure in the fortress, the Jebusites taunted David and his men, even asserting that the lame and the blind could defend Zion against David and his men. When David heard the insult, he sent his men up through the water tunnel into the city, and they conquered the stronghold.

"So David dwelt in the fort, and called it the city of David. And David built round about, from Millo, and inward. And David went on, and grew great; and the Lord God of hosts was with him." (II Samuel 5:9-10)

Perry snaps 6-game skid

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gaylord Perry's on a winning streak ... one in a row.

Earlier in the baseball season, that would have been a joke. But it isn't now to the Cleveland Indians' pitcher.

Perry, who won 15 straight in one stretch this year, was on a six-game losing streak before Thursday night's 4-2 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

In the only other American League game, the Baltimore Orioles nipped the Chicago White Sox 2-1. And in the only National League game, the Chicago Cubs beat the Houston Astros 5-3.

"I've never had any doubts in my ability to pitch," said Perry, who hadn't won a game since July 3. "I've felt great all along. I've just been in a slump."

At one juncture of the season, the two-time Cy Young winner had a dazzling 15-1 record. Now, it's a more modest 16-7.

"That's the longest slump I've ever had and it has been the hardest one," Perry noted.

He was taken out of Thursday night's game after walking the leadoff batter in the eighth inning. He had given up just five hits.

"I didn't want to come out," Perry said. "But you can't say it was a bad move from the way it worked out."

Frank Duffy's two-run single provided Perry with his winning runs. With the score tied 1-1 and two out in the Cleveland sixth, John Ellis doubled. Minnesota starter Bert Blyleven, 11-14, then walked Oscar Gamble and Tom McCraw to load the bases and set the stage for Duffy's single to left. The Indians scored an insurance run in the eighth on McCraw's sacrifice fly.

Orioles 2, White Sox 1

Earl Williams and Paul Blair walloped home runs in support of Mike Cuellar's six-hit pitching as Baltimore beat Chicago.

The Orioles failed to score in the third after loading the bases with one out, but Williams connected for his ninth homer of the season in the fourth and Blair slammed his 13th an inning later off loser Jim Kaat, 13-10.

Cubs 5, Astros 3

Second baseman Larry Milbourne dropped Steve Swisher's two-out, bases-loaded popup for a two-run error in a three-run eighth inning to give Chicago its victory over Houston.

Billy Williams started the winning rally with a one-out single—the 2,500th hit of his major league career—off Ken Forsch, 4-4. Andv Thornton walked and Jerry Morales singled, tying the score.

Jim York replaced Forsch and walked Bill Madlock intentionally to load the bases. He struck out George Mitterwald before Milbourne dropped Swisher's routine popup, letting Thornton and Morales score.

Mingo Wilderness Area could be reality in '75

WASHINGTON — Backers of the proposal to create a national wilderness area in southeast Missouri will have to wait until 1975 at least before anything is done.

10th District Rep. Bill D. Burlison, D-Cape Girardeau says "there is nothing doing" on the plan to designate the wilderness area in Mingo National Wildlife Refuge.

The congressman said legislation paving the way for the wilderness area still has not been formally introduced in Congress although a wilderness area plan endorsed by former President Nixon went to Capitol Hill in November 1973.

The plan calling for a 1,700- acre wilderness area in the refuge near Puxico in Stoddard County is included in the former Nixon administration proposal calling for the establishment of 12 new wilderness areas.

"None of these 12 have been acted upon," Rep. Burlison said. "It is my view that action will not come until next year. I have no idea when next year, but since it will not be an election year the wilderness area proposals stand a good chance of passage."

Rep. Burlison said the Watergate- impeachment troubles of Mr. Nixon that brought about his resignation as President on Friday had little to do with the delay of the Mingo Proposal.

"Delays of this nature are not unusual," he said. "It would be pretty difficult to trace the delay to Watergate."

Rep. Burlison said he was still supporting efforts for an 8,000- acre Mingo wilderness area instead of the 1,700 acres proposed in 1972 by the Department of Interior.

The 8,000 acres will preserve historic Monopoly Lake and other natural points of interest including lowland hardwood timber.

The measure is before the public lands subcommittee of the House Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs.

Rep. Burlison said he still wants subcommittee members to come to southeast Missouri for field hearings on the larger wilderness area proposal, which has been spearheaded by local, state and national conservation groups as well as the congressman.

"The members were too busy during this election year," he observed. "I am hopeful that one or more members of the subcommittee will come to the 10th District to hold field hearings next year." He said there should be at least one hearing -- at Mingo.

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Former Oral Roberts University basketball Coach Ken Trickey pleaded guilty Thursday to an amended charge of careless driving involving his arrest last March.

He originally was charged with driving while intoxicated. Trickey, 40, was arrested several hours after his Titans defeated Louisville in the first round of the NCAA Midwest Regional Tournament here March 15.

District Court Judge Robert Green fined Trickey $100 and $15 court costs at the recommendation of Asst. Dist. Atty. John Boggs, then suspended the fine.

Cordoba was a vice president of the WBA and has become the first Latin-American chairman of the association.

Cards obtain Osteen

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "I want to emphasize we're taking a chance," said St. Louis Cardinal General Manager Bing Devine Thursday after the acquisition of veteran lefthander Claude Osteen from the Houston Astros.

The Cardinals dealt away 19-year-old Ron Selak a pitcher with the Cards' Arkansas farm club in the Texas League. He is 9-8 so far this year and was the team's No. 2 draft selection in 1973. The Astros will also receive a player to be named later.

"Selak has come a long way in a year and a half. But pitching is the area where you try to strengthen yourself, if you can in our situation," Devine said.

The Cardinals, 1½ games ahead of the Philadelphia Phillies in the National League East, are seeking firmer ground in the starting pitching department.

"And I'm not thinking of Osteen just for this year," the general manager added. "To all intents and purposes, you have to recognize that Osteen is a starting pitcher."

Osteen, 35, brings a 9-9 record to St. Louis, including two victories this season over the Cardinals. He was a 20-game winner with the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1969 and 1972 and was traded to Houston last year for outfielder Jimmy Wynn.

The veteran lefthander has a 189-177 career mark.

Selak is to report to the Astros' Columbus, Ga., farm club in the Southern League.

Waterfowl season approved by state

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A waterfowl hunting season similar to the 1973 season has been approved for this year by the Missouri Conservation Commission.

One change will allow shooting to begin a half hour before sunrise. Also, the duck season will be five days longer, beginning Oct. 30 at noon and ending Dec. 18.

Canvasbacks and redheads are forbidden to hunters on both sides of the Mississippi River from Alton Dam north to the Iowa line.

The Missouri blue and snow goose season will be 70 days, beginning Oct. 30 and ending Jan. 7.

The Swan Lake Zone, where the bulk of Missouri's Canada geese hunting is done, will have a quota of 20,000 birds, or a 70-day season, whichever occurs first. The season begins Oct. 30.

The southeastern zone (east of Interstate 55 and south of Crystal City) will begin Dec. 1 and close Jan. 20 for Canda geese. For the rest of the state, the Canada geese season will begin Oct. 30 and last 45 days.

Reservation cards for state waterfowl areas will be accepted after Aug. 20 at the Department of Conservation Headquarters in Jefferson City.

Mulligan leaves camp

NORMAL, Ill. (AP) — The starting center for the St. Louis football Cardinals, Wayne Mulligan, left the team's training camp Thursday and asked to be traded after another player was moved into his position.

"I didn't suspect that Wayne would walk out," said Joe Sullivan, director of operations. "I thought he'd fight for his position or just say 'trade me' and stay in camp."

The 6-3, 250-pound Mulligan, a five-year veteran out of Clemson, became angered during Wednesday night's practice when Tom Banks, a starter at guard the past two seasons, was moved to starting center. Mulligan had held the starting center slot since 1970.

"We wanted to get a look at Banks there sometime during camp and with the late arrival of most of the veterans and time growing short, it was decided to do it right away," Sullivan said. "This thing is disappointing because Wayne is a nice fellow and a good football player," Sullivan added. He said he advised Mulligan against leaving camp, saying he could make a better trade if he remained.

Mulligan was not available for comment at his St. Louis home.

The Cardinals placed two other players on waivers—rookie running backs Chuck Smith of Yankton, S.D., College and free agent Larry Redmon of Pittsburg, Kan., State College.

There were 83 players in camp Thursday with three veterans still missing. Center Tom Brahaney and linebacker Pete Barnes remained in St. Louis for a phvsical, while linebacker Jeff Staggs was en route from the West Coast.

Litton said an important world food conference will be held in Rome this fall and special consideration will be given to the world food reserve. He noted that all nations of the world must realize that the United States can not continue to provide food reserves for the rest of the world. He said these nations must contribute their share to the cost of adequate storage for the world's food supply.

Litton was asked what he would do if he had the power to solve the cattle industry's problem. He replied: I would try to get the President to promise that government would stay out of farming for the next five years.'.

Noting that he thought the farm situation could work itself out on the open market, he said, "I think that the sooner the government stops mingling in supply and demand, the sooner this problem will be solved."

Two directors were elected to three -year terms at the meeting. They were Louis KalKbrenner of Poplar Bluff and Ray Fowler of New Madrid.

A fianancial statement released to members shows the Production Credit Associations has total assets of $40 million, an increase of $10 million from last year.

The amount the PCA owes also increased by $10 million from $25 last year to $35 million this year.

Income for the first six months of the year is $1.5 million compared to the first six months of 1973 when income was $900,000.

TOP STARS NARRATE "BICENTENNIAL MINUTES" THE WEEK OF AUGUST 18

HENRY FONDA, BEATRICE ARTHUR, ELIZABETH MONTGOMERY, BEAU BRIDGES AMONG THOSE TO NARRATE "BICENTENNIAL MINUTES" WEEK OF AUG. 18

Elizabeth Montgomery, Shirley Jones, David Janssen, Henry Fonda, Beatrice Arthur and Beau Bridges will appear in and narrate the "Bicentennial Minutes" series during the week starting Sunday, Aug. 18 on the CBS Television Network.

Shell Oil Company, represented by Ogilvy & Mather, Inc., is full sponsor of "Bicentennial Minutes."

Elizabeth Montgomery appears in and narrates the "Minute" on Sunday, Aug. 18. On that date 200 years ago, John Hancock was relieved of his command as colonel of the Boston Cadet Corps -- a move that was not surprising, since Hancock was a protege of Sam Adams and an outspoken radical. The "Minute" airs at the conclusion of "Apple's Way" at approximately 7:27 p.m. CDT.

The Monday, Aug. 19 "Minute" will be narrated by Shirley Jones. On Aug. 19, 1774, John Adams was on his way to the Continental Congress. His wife Abigail wrote him, stating, "...the month of September may be of as much importance to Great Britain as the Ides of March were to Caesar." The "Minute" will be broadcast at approximately 7:57 p.m. CDT, at the conclusion of "Gunsmoke."

The "Minute" on Tuesday, Aug. 20 is to be narrated by David Janssen. He describes how middle-class Bostonians were in danger of being driven out of business by the closing of Boston harbor. The segment will be shown at approximately 7:28 p.m. CDT, at the conclusion of "Maude."

Henry Fonda narrates the "Minute" on Wednesday, Aug. 21. On that date two centuries ago, the legendary Col. Israel Putnam arrived in Boston from Pomfret, Conn., with a gift for the starving Bostonians -- 125 sheep. The "Minute" will air at approximately 7:57 p.m. CDT, at the conclusion of "The Hudson Brothers Show."

On Thursday, Aug. 22, the "Minute" is to be narrated by Beatrice Arthur, who describes how John Adams was impressed with the elegance and architecture of New York City, yet expressed no desire to live there. The segment will be seen at approximately 7:30 p.m. CDT.

Beau Bridges narrates the "Minute" on Friday, Aug. 23. Two hundred years ago on that date a sickly James Madison was brought back to health by the new air -- the brewing Indian War and the start of the Continental Congress -- American were breathing. The "Minute" is to be broadcast at approximately 7:57 p.m. CDT, at the conclusion of "Good Times."

NO RECESSION FOR GAME SHOWS

HOLLYWOOD — Recession is a word that's being bandied about these days. But there's no such tragedy befalling the game show business.

Merrill Heatter and Bob Quigley, currently the grand pashas of TV game shows, are bullish about the present and downright crazy about the future.

"Game shows are flourishing today," says Heatter. "There was a period of recession but then CBS began using them in place of soap operas. Now NBC is using them, too. It's become very competitive and very profitable."

"There are no game shows in prime time with the networks," Quigley says. "But the FCC's prime time access rule has helped us. I think it's helped the audience, too. Our show, Hollywood Squares, appeals to everyone and there's no way for many people to see it in the daytime. With the prime time access rule, we can be seen in the early evening."

Besides Hollywood Squares, Heatter- Quigley has Gambit, on CBS. Another of their shows, Baffle, recently was cancelled. The cancellation didn't discourage them.

"In the game show business," Heatter says, "it's possible to resurrect shows. We consider a cancellation to be merely building inventory. There's a good possibility that Baffle may be resurrected."

Now they are working on other shows. They are always working on other shows.

"We always have ideas in various stages of development," Quigley says. "A game show office is like an artist's studio — he has a lot of canvasses around in various stages of completion, and so do we."

They've just done a pilot for a musical quiz show for ABC. Another one is coming along, almost ready for the pilot stage. And other ideas are moving along behind those two.

The two men say they are taking "a new and different tack" with the second pilot they're about to do. This time, instead of working with a network, they're developing it strictly on their own.

"It costs about $100,000 to do," Heatter says. "But, this way, we can keep control of it ourselves. We can sell it to a network for daytime use and syndicate it for nighttime use."

RICHARD, A 7TH GENERATION NEPHEW OF DANIEL BOONE

RICHARD BOONE
'Hec Ramsey' on
NBC Sun. Mystery Movie

As the veteran of roles as a gruff lawman in turn-of-the century Westerns, Boone has settled into the role of Hec Ramsey with ease.

Success isn't new to Boone, who has starred in several popular TV series: "Medic," which first brough him to television prominence, "Have Gun, Will Travel," the Western in which he played the tough, erudite "Paladin," and "The Richard Boone Show," an anthology series.

In 1964, he pulled up stakes and made his home in Hawaii for 7 years.

One of the important reasons for the move was Boone's desire to cut down his acting schedule so that he could spend more time with his son, Peter, born Aug. 22, 1953. Boone felt that the growing years of his son were too important to forsake for the busy life of the television industry.

In recent years Boone has undertaken several assignments "to keep in practice." He accepted roles in such pictures as "The Arrangement," "The Kremline Letter," "The Alamo," "Big Jake," "Hombre" and "Madron."

His career didn't get underway until after World War II when, in 1946, he enrolled in New York's Neighborhood Playhouse via the GI Bill.

Before that he had attended Stanford, where he was a college light-heavyweight boxing champ in 1936 and 1937. He worked in the oil fields, took up painting, and spent 4 years in the Pacific as an aerial gunner for the Navy.

His early acting assignments included those at the N.Y. Playhouse, on and off Broadway and some 75 starring roles for TV.

After touring with Dorothy Gish in "The Man," Boone was signed by 20th Century-Fox for such films as "The Halls of Montezuma," "Call Me Mister," "The Desert Fox," "Man on a Tightrope," "The Raid," and "The Robe."

Boone was born in Los Angeles and is a seventh-generation nephew of Daniel Boone. His father, Cecile, was s successful corporation lawyer. Boone received his primary education at the Army and Navy Academy in San Diego. He worked summers on chartered fishing boats.

Married to the former Claire McAloon, Boone lives in St. Augustine, Fla.

PCA members sing at annual meeting

William Settles, assistant vice-president of the Dexter office of Sikeston Production Credit Association, led members in singing at the association's annual meeting Thursday night at the high school band shell. About 1,200 people attended the meeting. Sixth District U.S. Rep. Jerry Litton of Chillicothe was the guest speaker. (Daily Standard photo)

Litton: Urban American needs education about farming

The urban American doesn't know what it means to be a farmer and must be educated before he can understand that a farmer must earn a good return on his money or he won't produce food for the nation's tables, according to Congressman Jerry Litton, Democrat from Chillicothe.

Litton spoke to 1,200 people at the annual meeting of the Production Credit Association Thursday night at the high school band shell.

Farmers must be willing to spend a little of their income to pay for public relations aimed at the urban dweller, who in some case, may have never seen a live cow or hog, Litton said.

When food prices began rising in 1973, farmers began responding by gearing up to produce more, he said. But consumers thought two or three months were enough to get the extra crops and meat produced, Litton added. When the prices didn't begin falling, the housewife boycotts started.

Litton said he talked to consumer groups, telling them the boycotts were counter-productive, but they didn't listen. He said he tried to tell them it takes 18 months for a calf to get to the table.

"When they didn't understand that, I knew we were in trouble," he said. He added that some people he talked to actually thought the government could pass a law and create more beef.

Last year, Litton brought together leaders of the nation's farm groups and helped organize the Agriculture Council of America. He said the Production Credit Association is a strong supporter of the ACA.

On Sept. 9, the council will begin a nationwide public relations campaign with television spots to bring the farmer's message to the city.

What should farmers tell the urban consumer? Tell him Americans have more good things in life because we spend only 16 per cent of each dollar for food , Litton said, where in other countries its much higher; in some parts of Asia as much as 80 per cent.

The reason for the higher food prices today is a food shortage, Litton said. The consumer should be told the farmer must have the profit motive before he will produce more. Give him the income, and the farmer will produce more than America can eat or store.

The reasons for the food shortage, Litton said, include, a boost in Social Security, allowing elderly to buy more food, an increase in the food stamp program,bad crop years in Russia and China and the sale of food grains to those nations, devaluation of the dollar, which made American agricultural products more attractive, a decrease in the anchovie supply for cattle feed and increases in wages for those at the lower ends of the pay scale with the increased wages going for added food purchases.

In order to pass, farm bills must have the support of urban congressmen, Litton said. To get that support, farm congressmen must be willing to support bills aimed at helping only the cities.

Congressman Jerry Litton

By voting against each other, farm and urban congressment have often voted against their best interests, Litton said.

In a press conference prior to the PCA meeting, Litton indicated that he believed a $13.8 billion Agricultural Appropriation Bill, which had been vetoed by former President Richard Nixon before he resigned, could be passed if some expenditures in the bill are decreased.

He said the bill, which encompasses many things, including food stamps, environmental measures and rural water and sewer funds, can be cut. Litton noted that President Gerald Ford had indicated that he was willing to meet Congress half way on legislation and he believed that Congress would be willing to go the other half in trimming the appropriations bill. However, he indicated that all the cuts should not be in rural water and sewer

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A major producer of milk products for consumption in Missouri contends its operation does not require compliance with the state's Unfair Milk Sales Practices Act.

Kroger Co., whose St. Louis County plant processes nearly 46.5 million pounds of milk annually for Missouri sale and processes milk products for consumption in other Midwest states, has never filed reports of its dock costs (raw milk plus handling costs; or wholesale prices under rules requiring such reports, according to a check of Agriculture Department records made public by a legislative committee this week.

State officials have apparently dropped, for the time being, attempts to secure court-ordered compliance with the rule, which the agriculture director has authority to issue under the act for the purpose of carrying out its provisions.

Representatives of the Hazelwood plant said officials able to comment on the matter were unavailable, but a spokesman at the Kroger Co., headquarters in Cincinnati said Kroger had determined its integrated operation—covering processing, distributing and retailing —was not covered by the rule.

"We do not have a wholesale price. In order to have a wholesale price, you have to have a sale," said Audrey McCafferty, manager for public information for Kroger. She explained that Kroger makes no sales once it obtains raw milk for processing, but merely moves the product through the processing operation and to its own store shelves.

Legal division officials of the company refused to comment on the situation, referring inquiries to "corporate affairs, which handles all our relations with the press."

The rules issued under the 1959 law, which is aimed at preventing anticompetitive practices, state, however:

"Where these rules refer to 'processor', 'distributor' or 'retailer' they sahll be applicable to any person who is engaged to any extent in one or more of these categories of business to the extent of such engagement."

State Agriculture Driector James B. Boillot, according to correspondence contained in the incomplete Kroger file, had pushed for the attorney general's office to pursue an attempt to gain a court injunction forcing Kroger to comply with the rules which enable the department to determine the difference between cost of processing and wholesale prices to either distributors or retailers.

"This approach would appear to be the most expeditious way to bring Kroger in line with other integrated processor-distributor-retailer operations," Boillot told Asst. Atty. Gen. William Cole in a letter last Nov. 30. Three other integrated milk operations in Missouri, including the large Safeway grocery store operation in Kansas City, file the required reports, state dairy division chief Charles Vanlanduyt said.

But Cole, who said he initially drew up a draft injunction petition to be filed in St. Louis County Circuit Court, contended that after discussion on the matter, "there was a very serious doubt that (the) rule applies to Kroger."

Discussion of the matter moved from Cole's St. Louis office, he said, to the Jefferson City headquarters of the attorney general, and Brook Bartlett, chief assistant to Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth, said after some discussions on the inuunction question, "I was satisfied that if the commissioner of agriculture wanted to go ahead with the action, it would be filed."

While the injunction petition was not filed, Bartlett said Thursday was the first time he had heard it had not been filed.

Cole said the attorney general's office recommended that the rules be amended by the Agriculture Department so they specifically cover operations like Kroger's.

Boillot, who acknowledged he was rather hazy on the final outcome of the Kroger question, said he recalled a suggestion was made to amend the rules.

But he said the department did not move quickly on any amendments for fear that changing the rules would open them up to court challenge.

The constitutionality of the rules now in force, issued June 22, 1970, was challenged by Foremost-McKesson, Inc., and three other processors, and their enforcement was stayed until December 1972 when the Missouri Supreme Court upheld their constitutionality.

Boillot said ways of revising the rules and strengthening them while avoiding another court challenge is under consideration.

Marshal's resignation questioned

LILBOURN -- The resignation of two city marshals to accept employment as New Madrid County sheriff's deputies within the past four months has become a sore spot for Lilbourn city officials who now are reluctant to accept the most recent resignation.

Conflicting statements have been made by Mayor Bill Tope and Johnny Martin regarding Martin's purported resignation.

According to Tope, Martin has not resigned and is continuing to serve as the city marshal. Tope said Thursday the City Council has deferred any action on the matter until the next regular council meeting, which is scheduled Sept. 5.

Martin, who assumed duties Aug. 1 as a full-time deputy sheriff at a salary of $600 per month, contends that he has resigned. He said he submitted his written resignation on Aug. 1, and again Wednesday night when the council met in special session concerning unrelated matters. Martin said his resignation was to become effective Sept. 1.

Alderman Dick Twitty confirmed that Martin did hand the mayor a written resignation at the meeting Wednesday night. Following a discussion by the council, Twitty said the mayor returned the resignation to Martin and asked him to hold it until Sept. 5.

Twitty said Martin told him a week to 10 days before the council meeting on Aug. 1 that he was going to resign from the office to accept a full-time deputy position.

Martin said he told the council members Wednesday night that because he was elected by the people, he would stay on until they could find a temporary marshal to serve until a special election could be held to fill the position.

Martin was elected in a special city election on June 4 to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Fred Roe, who had been elected on April 2 to a new two-year term. Roe submitted his resignation at the end of the month when he accepted employment as a full-time deputy.

Lilbourn's salary schedule for the city marshal post is $400 per month, plus a $200 allotment for car expense.

A second special election was held in July to fill the city collector's post, which was vacated by Mrs. Ruth Newton when she moved from the city.

The city's cost for a special election has been estimated to be about $500 and apparently the council is becoming weary of financing such elections nearly every month.

Election contest hearing date reset

CHARLESTON -- Circuit Judge Marshall Craig reset the hearing for Sept. 28 on a petition contesting the outcome of the race for presiding judge of the County Court in thyAug. 6 primary election.

During a hearing today in Circuit Court on the petition, a motion seeking dismissal of the action to recount the ballots was filed by the attorney for Ralph Adkisson, who won the election for presiding judge by four votes over incumbent W. H. Winchester Jr.

Judge Craig took that motion under advisement.

The original petition which was filed Aug. 13 in Circuit Court by W. H. Winchester Jr., states that Winchester desires to challenge the correctness of the tabulation of votes for the presiding judge office.

The official count of the Aug. 6 election shows that Adkisson received 2,036 votes to Winchester's 2,032.

In other court action today, a murder trial for Mrs. Alma Williams of Charleston, who is charged with the April 20 stabbing death of Lenora Henderson of Charleston was continued to Sept. 10

Judge Craig ordered the forfeiture of bond of Jesse Teague of Bertrand, who failed to appear for trial on a burglary charge. Teague is accused of breaking into the office of R.C. Davis Cotton and Grain Co. in Charleston on Aug. 13.

4 injured in SeMo accidents

Four persons were injured in area accidents Thursday, the high patrol reported today.

An accident involving a tractor-trailor truck and a van injured both drivers and one passenger at 10 p.m. on Interstate 55, four miles south of Sikeston.

The accident occurred when a tractor-trailer rig driven by Donal d Roober, 21, of Delaplaine, Ark., ran into the back of a van driven by Charles Dunn, 40, of Manila, Ark.

The drivers and passenger in the van, Ida Dunn, 42, of Manila, suffered minor injuries. All three were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston for treatment.

Sarah Brown, 17, of Charleston, suffered minor injuries in an accident at 1:55 p.m. on Highway 60 one mile east of Charleston when the car she was driving east was struck from behind while slowing for a left turn by a truck going west, driven by Cecil Davis, 29, of Brent, Ala., at 1:55 p.m. Aug. 15. The highway patrol said the accident occurred when the truck came up behind the car during a rain storm. Davis applied his breaks, but the truck slid into the other lane and struck the car.

Thieves get stereo, TV in break-in

Burglars carried off a television set and a stereo tape player from the Ryan Construction Co., 490 Davis Blvd., between 7 p.m. Thursday and 7 a.m. today.

Police said the burglars entered the building through a window on the south side.

The television set was valued at $146 and the tape player at $96. Also $20 in change was taken, police said.

Six cartons of cigarettes valued at $21 were taken from Jimmerson's Service Station, 703 W. Malone Ave., between 10 p.m. Thursday and 6:50 a.m. today.

The thieves apparently entered the building through a front window which they broke out, police said.

New inspection set at county landfill

BENTON --Rick L. Roberts, chief of solid waste techinical services in the Bureau of Solid Waste Management, informed the Scott County Court Thursday that another inspection of the county's sanitary landfill north of Morley will be conducted Sept. 16 to determine if an effort has been made to operate under an approved plan.

The County Court had received a warning Monday that if the landfill fails to meet state requirements with in a reasonable amount of time, it will be closed. The warning was issued after state officials accompanied members of the County Court to the landfill site and determined that it was being operated improperly. "The court needs to make up its mind to start operating the landfill by the approved plans," said Roberts.

Presiding Judge Les Lankford told Roberts the court had taken over a bad project.

"The first man operating the landfill was James Patrick of St. Louis, who just threw up his hands. Sonny Glaus of Sikeston (the second operator— gave up, too. , and we just continued operating the way they were, " Lankford remarked.

According to Roberts, the approved engineer plans required

- Trees and brush that hinder operation of the landfill be removed.

- A permanent road be constructed from the existing private road to the wet weather operating area. A temporary road be extended into the bottom of the gully to provide access to the dry weather operation area. A roadway be constructed to a width of 24 feet with uphill grades limited to seven per cent and downhill to less than 10 per cent. There should not be a bridge along the roadway.

- The natural terrain provides a barrier to prevent trespassing on three sides of the property and 250 feet of woven wire fence should be constructed to prevent trespassing and to screen the site from the existing private road.

- A gate be constructed at the intersection of the permanent road and the existing private road. A second gate be constructed at the intersection of the permanent and temporary road. Information signs be located at the site entrance and along the access roads.

- A stockpile of soil be maintained for fire control and a 500 gallon water storage tank be placed at the site. Surface drainage be continued by constructing a seven -acre detention pond in the south corner of operating area -a drainage ditch be constructed in natural ground on the ridge of the west of the fill area.

- A building for office space and heated employe facilities.

- A 500 -gallon water storage tank be provided for drinking and sanitary facilities should be suitable for 30 days. It can be used for emergency fire fighting.

- A septic tank and drain field be built to provide toilet facilities.

- a 1,000 square -foot pole shed be constructed for equipment maintenance.

- The final cover of the landfill have a minimum thickness of two feet of clean well compacted soil, a daily cover of minimum of six inches and intermediate cover approximately one foot thick.

- Provision be made for wet weather operation in two smaller gullies located in the southeast quadrant of the initial operating area. In wet weather, trucks dump their loads from the turn around area of the bottom.

"I think part of the problem the court is having in abiding by these regulations is they do not know what they have agreed to do," Roberts said.

Roberts said previous owners did not develop the work road to the dry area of the landfill because of large sand pockets. The timber has not been completely cleared away and a retention pond has not been constructed below the site.

The court said it does not have a rat problem at the landfill but does have a problem with snakes and knows of a few rattlesnakes at the site.

Roberts told the Court he wanted the refuse at the site covered as soon as possible. "You may need to operate two dozers at the site for a year," he commented.

Louie Hirschowitz, second district associate judge, said if the court is going to make these many improvements at the landfill it would need more money .. and suggested a tax increase as a possible solution.

Eldon Ziegenhorn, first district associated judge, said the landfill should operate all day Saturday and shut down on Sundays, after Roberts informed the court it needed a man at the site at all times it is in operation.

Lankford replied that if the landfill was closed, people would start dumping trash along the roadside again.

The court members indicated to Roberts it may submit another application to the Missouri Division of Health for approval.

Roberts said the landfill was first inspected in September of 1973 and at that time the operator, Raymond Glaus of Sikeston, was subleasing it from the court. But, according to Glaus, he was leasing the site at the time from Kenny Dement and Keith Ziegenhorn of Sikeston.

IN THE NICK
OF TIME

Freedom- loving Americans can breathe a sigh of relief that at the very last moment, and in response to an outraged Congress, the U. S. Department of Commerce moved to restrict sales of highly sophisticated electronic crime detection and police equipment to the Communist dictatorship ruling Russia and the captive nations. Nevertheless, the chilling incident serves as a frightening example of how the Reds hope to exploit the "Spirit of Detente." And it leaves some nagging questions concerning the policies of Secretary of State Kissinger.

Credit must go to Washington news reporter Sam Jaffe, who first broke the story (on July 7) in the Chicago Tribune and to Representative Charles Vanik of Ohio who called the matter to the attention of Congress on July 9. Jaffe had revealed that a Moscow trade show, called "Krimtehnika 74" was scheduled for August 18 to 28, and that United States manufacturers and distributors of police equipment and crime laboratory devices had been invited to participate.

It came as a shock to many to learn that, according to a Commerce Department official questioned at the time, "there are no regulations against manufacturers of police equipment sending their goods to Communist countries" — a situation which, happily, has now been corrected. But even more shocking was the declaration by Commerce that they were aware of the proposed Kremlin deal, but that they had been "advised" by the State Department that "we take a hands- off position if any American businessman contacted us concerning the show." Does "detente," in the eyes of Mr. Kissinger, mean that the United States must actively support the Soviet Secret Police in their oppression of the Russian and captive nations' people?

Interesting, too, is the report by newsman Jaffe that the Kremlin- KGB deal was being engineered here by an outfit calling itself the Welt International Corp. of Chicago. We have no knowledge whatsoever of the identity of the people connected with this company; but all Americans can but feel a sense of shame that there are some in our midst who apparently don't care how low they stoop to make money.

A reader asked a good question after we has published a list of a few of the uses Washington spenders put to the taxpayer's dollar:

"But how is a taxpayer's dollar divided if it should be applied to the tax dollar as a whole?"

So we referred to an official government document called "The U. S. Budget in Brief" which has a chart showing the division this way:

--Benefit payments to individuals, 37 cents.

--Grants or payments to states and localities, 17 cents.

--National defense, 29 cents.

--Interest on the national debt, 7 cents.

--All other Federal operations, 10 cents.

Add it up and it comes to your tax dollar.

But the fact is that your tax dollar, or tax revenue as a whole, isn't the real cause of our fiscal troubles. The government borrows money nearly every year to pay its debts. That is what is known as deficit spending.

Sen. Carl Curtis of Nebraska says it is this deficit spending that is largely to blame for inflation. And the Senator has suggested a solution. He has introduced a proposed Senate Joint Resolution calling for a constitutional amendment to impose a mandatory surtax every year to bring about a balanced budget.

It would work automatically and would take another slice of the tax dollar to make up any deficit that occurs.

You can be sure there would be a lot more resistance to charge account spending by Congress if this were done. The folks back home, paying the bills, would see to that.

"There is a paradox in the fact that," comments Mr. Walter B. They cannot have it both ways. They cannot ask more and more government intervention in what ought to be a free market and still insist on more and more freedom for themselves as individuals. No people have ever preserved political liberty for very long in an environment of economic dictatorship. We often learn too late that freedom is indivisible."

* * *

All of which leads us to believe that more and more people are beginning to catch onto the fact that uncontrolled federal spending is the big fire under inflation. Since this is an election year, heads may roll at the polls if Congress continues to lie down on the job of reforming its own spending habits and way of doing business.

THIRTEEN
MISTAKES

It was back in 1914.

And a California judge was musing over the mistakes of life.

He was on the California State Supreme Court and had seen much tragedy passing before him, in his years on the bench.

He summed it up in "thirteen mistakes."

Here they are, just as true today, as they were in 1914:

1. To attempt to set up your own standard of right or wrong
2. To try to measure the enjoyment of others by your own
3. To expect uniformity of opinion of this world
4. To fail to make allowance for inexperience
5. To endeavor to mold dispositions alike
6. Not to yield in unimportant trifles
7. To look for perfection in our own actions
8. To worry ourselves and others about what cannot be remedied
9. Not to help everybody, wherever, however, and whenever we can
10. To consider anything impossible that we can't perform ourselves
11. To believe only what our not infinite minds can grasp
12. Not to make allowances for weakness of others
13. To estimate by some outside quality while it is that within which makes thyman

WORTH A
TRY ANYWAY

With hog prices rocketing downward during recent months because of a reported over-supply in the nation, the NFO announced and put into effect a plan for its members to each sell 5% of their small feeder pigs, for export purposes. That takes them off the future local eating size pork markets of hogs of from 200 to 250 pounds.

The NFO says it has contracts with packers to buy, slaughter and process them, then ship them abroad, with the heads on, for foreign spit-type cooking.

It seemed to work, according to reports. At one collection point in mid-June, more than 2,000 were sold, at another, just under 1,200 head went.

Reports were that the day after the first of the "baby hog" sales, prices for fat hogs jumped 50 cents and after the second they took another jump.

This week the plan was used at the Hunnewell collection point.

If the plan works, all well and good, say NFO members. If it doesn't, no producer has lost much, because the prices were already so low there wasn't much to lose.

It sounds like a good plan for helping to regulate local supply and local demand, and if enough participate, will probably work.

Along with everyone else in the hog producing areas, we hope it does.

CHALLENGING
GOVERNOR BOND

We were glad to see State Treasurer James Sapainhower come out last week in opposition to Governor Christopher Bond's illegal attempt to "pack" the various state boards by removing appointees to those boards before their terms had expired.

Until Mr. Spainhower's attack, it had seemed as if the Democratic power structure of the State was not going to challenge Mr. Bond's violation of the State Constitution and of the intention of the Legislature and the voters.

By the thinnest threads of logic, Mr. Bond and his cohort in the Attorney General's office, Mr. Danforth, concluded that the new state reorganization, which went into effect July 1, created all-new agencies at the state level. This, they said, voided the terms of all previous appointees to governing boards, and gave Bond the right to name his own men to these posts.

The Courts will hopefully be asked now to determine whether Bond acted within the law and the Constitution in his power grab.

If the Court gives any weight at all to the intent of the framers of the reorganization law, it would have to declare Bond's action null and void.

There is a clearly established constitutional premise that appointments to state boards be on a staggered basis, in order to prevent undue influence by one governor over the commissions and boards which control the operations of state agencies.

In the case of the Departments of Conservation and of Highways, there is a clear constitutional mandate that these agencies be kept out of politics. The Department of Education has traditionally been in the same position.

By his ill-advised action, the Governor now seeks to overturn the independence of these agencies — and that was not the intention of the Legislature or of the voters in adopting the statewide reorganization amendment and enabling legislation.

Two of Warren Hearnes' appointees — Robert DeLaney on the Conservation Commission, and W. Clifton Banta Sr. on the State Board of Education — have in effect been fired by the Governor by his appointment of new men effective July 1.

Mr. DeLaney seems to think his replacement was due to his unwillingness to allow the Governor's office to dictate policy to the Conservation Commission. Why the Governor would replace Mr. Banta, who has done a good job as a member and President of the Board of Education, is a matter of some conjecture.

We agree with Mr. Spainhower that the Governor should withdraw his illegal appointments to these boards, and permit the former appointees to serve out the terms to which they were named.

If the Governor refuses to do so, then the Senate should refuse to confirm the appointment of the Bond men, and the Democratic Party should file suit to have Bond's interpretation of the new law overturned.

MORE FRAGILE
THAN WE THINK

The chief executive officer of Time, Incorporated, Mr. Andrew Heiskell, recently delivered a commencement Address at Hofstra University. The subject of his talk was freedom of speech -- and the press. The bulk of his remarks dealt directly with public attitudes and government strictures that he feels pose a threat to the free press as we have known it in the United States. He noted with concern a public opinion survey that showed "... an astonishing 55 per cent of the American public did not think that the press even in time of peace had the right to report any story the government felt harmful to the national interest." He added, "If that survey accurately reflects public opinion, we are in trouble, for we have forgotten the fundamental values upon which this nation was founded."

There is no question that the press has its shortcomings; but, on the whole, the American public, through its free press, is better informed and thus better armed against oppression than virtually any other nation on earth. Mr. Heiskell noted the results of a study conducted by the Freedom of Information Center at the University of Missouri. "That study", he commented, "determined that less than one half of the world had a free press ... Weighing negative factors that ranged from direct government control to concentrated ownership, from organized self-regulation to highly restrictive libel laws, the study concluded that only 16 nations -- one of them the United States -- could be rated 'free to a high degree'. Since then, a free press has practically disappeared in most of Latin American. Those results indicate that a free ... press may be more fragile and ... unique than we like to think." Of all our freedoms, nothing lies closer to the heart of liberty itself than a free press.

CONSPIRACY OF SILENCE

A conspiracy of silence seems to afflict a large area of the consumer protection movement. Emphasis has been on demanding laws that hold manufacturers solely accountable for the quality and safety of products. No consumer protector has questioned the hazards to consumers that arise from faulty workmanship—something wholly apart from faulty engineering or poor design. No consumer protector has a word to say about the danger to consumers of overly protective union rules that make it impossible for management to discipline or control the inefficient workers.

The president of the Southern State Industrial Council remarks that, "If management could exercise some control over its hiring, wage and disciplinary policies, a lot less shoddy merchandise would reach the consumer. And if pride of craftesmanship were still present in the American industrial scene, it is the consumer who would benefit." The consumerist conspiracy of silence, with regard to the rising gravity of the problem of worker indifference, makes suspect the strident consumer protection campaigns.

HEARNES' 'BULGE'

The column by Jack Flach appearing July 13-14, concerning the financial crisis faced by Gov. Bond after only 18 months in office, contained the following: "Hearnes didn't leave his successor, Bond, the bulge that Dalton had left Hearnes."

The balance in the state treasury as of Dec. 31, 1964 was $122 million plus. The balance in the state treasury as of Dec. 31, 1972, was $123 million plus.

"Quality of Life" versus Sanctity of Life

The increasing talk about the importance of the "quality of life" is unfortunately all too often a cover -up for something much more sinister. This phrase is often used to mean that if a life isn't of "high quality" then it should not exist. In other words, our laws should be changed to legalize "euthanasia" for the very old, the very ill, the deformed and the retarded.

In the words of Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Willke of Cincinnati: "Quite simply, this judgment says that a human life should not be permitted to continue if that human life does not measure up to a certain degree of mental perfection and/or is not independent and useful to those around him, including the state. This is an absolutely frightening concept."

Perhaps what is most frightening is that legalizing euthanasia would give the state absolute power over life and death. If a person is too old to make a "contribution" to society, he could be eliminated. If a child is deemed to have serious mental retardation or physical handicaps, then he would not be allowed to live.

This goes against the Christian heritage of our country. In addition, many people can tell of the great rewards that have come to families which lovingly cared for a retarded or handicapped child or a very ill or elderly person.

We must not allow ourselves to be fooled by propanganda for the "quality of life." We must stand firmly for the value of every human. life. HLH

JACK ANDERSON SAYS;

Ford Searches for Missing Evidence Linking Rockefeller to Watergate

WASHINGTON —President Gerald Ford has been searching for seven elusive boxes of Watergate documents which he fears may contain damaging information about former Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

Until a few weeks ago, it appeared certain the boxes had been burned on orders of Nixon campaign aides prior to the 1972 presidential elections. But during the past week, as Ford mulled over his choice for the vice presidency, his "transition team" quietly sought the missing cartons.

Their purpose: to make absolutely sure that there is no Agnew scandal in Ford's future.

According to sworn testimony the boxes, containing an estimated 7,000 documents, were destroyed. But new reports suggest they may have been cached instead in a locked vault. The reports are now considered firm enough to have brought the special Watergate prosecutor into the probe.

The hearsay evidence in their possession, which is similar to that reaching Ford, is that Rockefelller helped bankroll a standby team of Nixon toughs for the 1972 Democratic convention. The ex 0New York governor's office had denied the charge as "absolutely untru" and offered to open the campaign books to prove it is false.

The boxes, once in the custody of Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt, were hauled away by a Nixon loyalist named Roy Sheppard after the Watergate break -in of June 1972.

In August 1972, we came within an ace of getting them through Sheppard's lawyer, who was troubled about their hidden secrets.

But Sheppard adamantly refused to give them up. He later testified that he had burned them in his frunace on orders of Nixon campaign aides. There the matter stood until a month ago.

At that time, we received reports that Sheppard had not burned the papers and once again we tried to find them. Ford's "transition team" also heard of the documents and assigned a crack lawyer to track them down.

The lawyer worked throught last weekend chasing clues. He satisfied himself there as at least a slim chance the boxes exist, although neither he nor anyone else was sure what they might contain.

Acting on White House orders, the lawyer immediately turned his clues over to assistant special prosecutor Richard Ben -Veniste, who quickly re -opened the investigation. Ben -Veniste has now been given the name of the town where the boxes are supposedly located. He also has clues to the identification of the alleged custodian of the boxes, provided by one of Sheppard's friends, Hal O'Brien.

At O'Brien's urging. we have learned, the special prosecutor intends to give Sheppard immunity from prosecution if the boxes are found intact.

Footnote: Actually, the special prosecutor is not as interested in the Rockefeller material as he is in other rumored contents of the boxes. Reportedly, there is evidence of Mafia campaign influence and answers to other unresolved Watergate questions. Sheppard, when asked about the boxes by my associate Les Whitten, said, "I don't know what you're talking about."

FIREARMS FRACAS: The Treasury Department's firearm regulators got caught with their powder wet by Rep. Mike Harrington, D -Mass.

Harrington, who wants to ban all private handguns, accused Treasury's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms of using faulty figures to show that 70 per cent of pistols used by criminals are cheap "Saturday Night Specials."

This figure plays right into the hands of the big domestic gun manufacturers who want the public to believe that costlier weapons aren't often used in crimes. Exactly the opposite is true.

Harrington complained to the bureau's director, Rex Davis, that such phony figures make it look like banning Saturday Night Specials will end the slaughter on America's streets. Davis promised to "re -examine the figures."

Actually, the figures were known to be wrong from the start, as we now know from a secret memo directly from the bureau's own files.

"If you will but recall," wrote Davis' deputy, William Thompson, to the bureau's public affairs chief, Warren McConnell, "I challenged the process by which (the figures) were reached at the time."

The statistics, wrote Thompson, contained "built -in errors (and) items which are inaccurate or incorrect." The report "does a disservice to the bureau as well as to the public," he snapped.

"It gives me no pleasure to say, "I told you so,"' wrote Thompson. "Quite the contrary, I hope that we will be able to prove our figures... are very nearly perfect."

But, Thompson concluded, "the hastily taken shortcut has ..cast doubt upon our credibility." Meanwhile, Director Davis, unaware that Harrington already has the secret memo, has written it will be "about two weeks" before he can fully answer Harrington.

POAGE PRESSURE: Autocratic House Agriculture Chairman Bob Poage, D -Tex., is privately pressuring members of the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee to gut two bills protecting streams and wetlands.

Poage wants to open up 150,000 miles of waterways to the bulldozers so his fatcat farmer and land developer friends can get rich. The taxpayer would foot the bill for the destruction of marsh, streams and rivers where wildlife and fish have been breeding for centuries.

Inside Labor

by Victor Riesel

Austrian Labor-Management 'Social Partnership' Ends Industrial Wars; Clamps Down Inflation

VIENNA — They waltz well together in this hard- working city because once the men of power on all sides almost were hung together by the Nazis. Amid pain and ghastly death in the same concentration camp some 35 years ago, they learned the hard way the futility of social, economic, political and machine-gun civil war when they had their freedom. They lost it. Regained it. Now they worship it and don't try to bludgeon each other, neither the unions nor the employers.

I've just left Chancellor Bruno Kreisky in the Austrian counterpart of the White House Oval Room. We had talked for an hour in the very same office where exactly 40 years ago Christian Democrat Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss had been gunned down by a Nazi killer -- not many days after his own forces had killed Social Democrats and unionists barricaded in public housing projects which were their last bastions.

Chancellor Kreisky and I had talked about the world's No. 1 problem -- inflation, prices, the fight against the common enemy, the high cost of living, the survival of all free nations, the common stand against bankruptcy.

From this conversation and from talks with the highest management executives and with strong man Anton Banya, who is at the same time president of the Austrian Federation of Labor, the Parliament, and chairman of the Metal and Mine Workers Union, I learned that all sides trust each other.

Since 1957 they have worked cooperatively on something they call their Economic and Social Partnership.

Basically, this is an appeal to reason by the leaders of both sides and the government to their own constituencies on wages, prices and economic policies -- for the good of their country.

It has worked. There are virtually no strikes, Last year, the private sector lost only 107,000 man-hours. Infinitesimal! There was a long teachers' strike. But the industrial and commercial sectors were quiet. Yet wages went up so that the cost of living was met. There is a formula which gives the workers 3 per cent more in real wages after "meeting" the increased cost of living.

Obviously here I can give only a simplified version of their system. It's the spirit that counts. It's based on solid technical organization, however.

There is a lesson for us, the giant nation, to learn from tiny Austria, which is more then whipped cream, Sacher Tortes, The Merry Widow waltz and skiing. We could do well by creating what they did -- the Parity Commission on Wages and Prices. It consists of four groups which work with the government.

On it are the Austrian Federation of Labor (sort of the AFL-CIO), the Chamber of Labor (roughly, a miniature labor department), the Employers: Association and an Agricultural Council. They meet monthly with the Chancellor to discuss the economic good of their nation -- though their politics differ sharply.

There are three subcommissions, one on wages, another on prices and the third on social welfare. In theory, often in practice, manufacturers and merchants who want to raise their prices go to the price commission and argue for increases. Their own national business leaders ponder the impact on the country. They really can't veto the price hike but there is a "gun on the table." If a producer or farmer rejects "constraining" advice on moderation, the government can freeze prices for six months.

As for wages, the unions can't demand the renegotiation of their (open-ended) contracts without permission of the subcommission on wages. If they disclose they're going to ask for sky-high increases, Benya says, cool it. Or they can't reopen. Despite the grandeur of the Austrian countryside this isn't heaven on earth, so there are bugs in the system. But it works.

This Economic and Social Partnership works so well that there is overemployment. Austria, a nation with a unionized membership of 1.5 million has had to import over 200,000 foreign workers because all available Austrian employes are just not enough to go round even with the doubling and tripling of moonlight jobs.

As one highly placed management leader, Junata Kottulinsky, head of the Association of Austrian Industries, put it: "We're not perfect. We survive because both sides listen to reason more often than go wild."

He recalled that when the labor-Social Democrat coalition won absolute parliamentary control from the People's Party (Christian Democrats) in 1970 (and 1971) Benya visited the industrial leaders.

"Look," said the powerful politico- labor chief (proportionately far more than George Meany), "we will not take advantage of our new parliamentary strength. When you fellows controlled the government you did not push us around. Now we will be reasonable and not use our new parliamentary power to hurt you."

This is Economic and Social Partnership. It is in keeping with the vow they made to each other in the Nazi concentration camp always to work together despite political adn economic differences, to preserve freedom if they survived.

Giant America could learn from little Austria. Or do we have to be hit by the Apocalypse first?

What's the law?

The case of the broken promise

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Herman pursued the political path but, instead of leading to the gravy, it lead to a dead end. He had worked industriously and with great determination to help elect Sincere Sam mayor on the latter's promise that , if elected, Herman would be appointed to a city job. After the election, however, the newly installed mayor wouldn't even give poor old Herman a jog as dog catcher.

Outraged, Herman sued "His Honor" for fraud and deceit.

"He lied to me," complained Herman to a judge. "He never intended to give me a job. He only intended to trick me into working for him for nothing. Before the election, he was always shaking my hand. Afterwards, he was always trying to shake me."

"Nonsense," was the mayor's answer. "He didn't work for me. He worked for the glory of the party. I just happened to be its candidate. And while Herman's efforts in my behalf have earned him my gratitude, that's all he had a right to expect."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold "His Honor" liable for breaking his promise to Herman?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that, under the law, a candidate's promise tor reward a person with a political job in exchange for his campaign efforts is against public policy and void. Consequently, concluded the judge, while he was sympathetic to Herman's situation, there was nothing he could do for him.

Inflation hasn't changed the price of ashes.

But it has changed the price of your home. For example, if you bought a $20,000 home in 1968—today it's worth about $27,000. Don't be left with a costly pile of ashes. Miss Horton, Burch wed during candlelight ceremony

NEW MADRID — Miss Janelle Margaret Horton and Kenneth Allen Burch were united in holy matrimony in an 8 p.m. candlelight ceremony on July 26 at First Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Howard Ray officiated at the double- ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Horton of New Madrid, the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burch of 410 William St., Sikeston.

The church altar was decorated with a 21- branch candelabrum with three candelabra on each side. Both were entertwined with pixie carnations and greenery. Tapered white candles, held in an arrangement of pixie carnations and greenery, were in each window. Pew ends were decorated with spring bouquets, and the parents' pews were marked with pink ribbon bows.

Pre-nuptial music was provided by Miss Eva Horton, who also accompanied Miss Becky Tope, who saing, "The Lords Prayer," and Miss Tope and Carrie Phillips as they sang, "Let It Be Me", and Phillips as he sang "Sunrise, Sunset".

Miss Lisa Laminack of Opelousas, La., cousin of the bride, accompanied herself on the guitar and sang "The Wedding Song." The wedding benediction was sun by Miss Horton and Miss Tope.

The bride was escorted down the white carpeted aisle by her father. She wore a gown fashioned of dacron polyester organza, with a slight empire waistline highlighted by tiny Venise lace on the transparent bodice. The band collar and cuffs were accented with bands of Venise schiffi embroidery. The full A-line skirt had a large wide ruffle featured also in the detachable chapel train.

Her double- tier fingertip veil was made of imported English silk illusion encircled by matching Venise lace on both tiers attached to a tiny flower caplet headpiece. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink and white carnations centered with an orchid tied with pink and white streamers with lovers' knots.

Miss Karen Horton was maid of honor, and Pamela Dyke was bridesmaid. They wore identical pink, floral, formal gowns featuring an empire waistline with V-necks and puffed sleeves. They carried old- fashioned bouquets of white carnations filled with pink pixies.

The groom wore a tuxedo with white coat trimmed in black, black pants and white ruffled shirt trimmed in black. He wore a red rose boutonniere.

The bride's father wore a black tuxedo with white ruffled shirt trimmed in black and his boutonniere was a white carnation.

Bruce Huffstutler of Matthews served as best man, and Danny Lefler of Sikeston served as groomsman. They wore black tuxedos with white ruffled shirts trimmed in black, and their boutonnieres were white carnations.

Ushers were Horrell Townsend and Paul Warren.

The flower girl was Leslie Northcutt of Sikeston. She wore a pink formal featuring an empire waistline and carried a basket of pink and white pixie carnations.

The ringbearer was Tony Coppage of Canalou. He wore a burgundy sport coat and white trousers.

Candlelighters were Regina Burch and Kerry Northcutt of Sikeston.

The mother of the bride wore a blush rose, A-line, street- length dress. The mother of the groom wore a beige, A-line, cotton dress with lace puckered jacket. Both mothers wore cymbidium orchid corsages.

Miss Carla Warren attended the guestbook.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in the church dining room. Mrs. B. C. Horton of New Madrid served as hostess and was assisted by Miss Karen Burch of Sikeston, Mrs. Jackie Stanley of Murray, Ky., Mrs. William S. French and Mrs. Earl Cokenour of New Madrid.

The bride's table was overlaid with a soft, pink, satin, floor- length cloth draped with pink net held with satin bows and pink pixie carnations.

A three-tiered wedding cake centered the table and was surrounded with pink and white carnations. The ends of the table held a silver coffee service and cut glass punch bowl. Nuts and mints were served from silver trays, and the wedding candles were held in silver candle holders.

A rehearsal buffet was hosted by the groom's family in the church dining room.

A miscellaneous shower was given by Miss Carla Warren on July 16th.

Out- of - town guests were Mrs. L. E. Wiseman of Malden; Jackie Stanley of Murray, Ky.; Pat Goodnight, Laura Ann Foster and Maxine Prance of Campbell; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Tope of Lilbourn; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Laminack of Morehouse; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Laminack Jr. and daughters Terri and Cathey of Opelousas, La.; and Debbie Hardin and Julie Neal of Cape Girardeau.

Following a short wedding trip, the couple is living in Sikeston.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

The way everyone talks about recycling you'd think it was something new. Big deal. Our family has been doing it for years.

We never throw anything away ... clothes, furniture, appliances, toys, canning jars, maternity clothes ... cars ... we just call up the family and say, "I'm weeding out my treasures so if you want to look through before I give them the pitch" ... and before you can hang up there are 30 cars in the driveway.

More junk has been reprieved from the jaws of the Goodwill and Salvation Army than anyone wants to admit.

When I was first married it wasn't unusual for me to drop the phone and head for the car shouting, "Pat is getting rid of her hot water heater." My husband said I clocked more hours in a U-Haul than I did in my marriage bed.

There wasn't anything too tacky to be used again. A maternity dress with a knot in the drawstring ... a sleeping bag without a zipper ... a freezer that heated up ... a washer with parts available only behind the Iron Curtain ... a dress that could be worn and used to dust the piano at the same time ... a pair of boots with a hole in the sole ... all were goodies that we fought over like feeding time at the zoo.

I guess nothing generated more excitement than when one member of the family bought something new. I recall when my Aunt Louise bought a new chair, everyone moved up a chair. Her daughter inherited her old chair that had survived three cats in diapers. With the cat chair, her chair with the faded slipcover went to my mother.

Mother's chair with the grease stains from Dad's hair dressing went to my sister. Her chair with the spring that came through the cushions came to me and my chair with the rip in the cording went to my cousin, Virginia. Her chair ... well, all in all, 15 people played the game of musical chairs.

The handing down of clothes was probably worse. Wearing a discarded dress out was like going to a Hollywood wedding. It was risky to make any comment as everyone at one time or another had had custody of the dress.

The other day I collected a large pile of stuff in the garage. "I think the economy is worse in this country than it has ever been before," I said to my husband.

"What makes you say that?"

"Look at the quality of this junk," I said picking up a Nehru jacket.

"This stuff looks familiar," he said.

"It should," I sighed. "It's EXACTLY the same pile of junk I offered 10 years ago and now it has all come back full cycle. I don't know what the world is coming to."

Swat better than pinch as disciplinary method

Dear Ann Landers: I need some help before I blow my top and clobber my husband publicly. The problem we are having concerns the disciplining of our children.

I believe in firm guidelines and punighment. (Our youngsters are all under eight years of age.) It seems to me a swat on the seat at the appropriate moment conveys the message. But my husband believes in pinching --and I mean the kind of pinch that leaves black -and -blue marks.

When our children misbehave in public and their father moves toward them, they cling to me, frightened and tearful. He then gets mad at me and says I am undermining his authority. The last time he pinched one of the kids was in church. The screaming disrupted the services and I was embarrassed to death.

I say his behavior is sick. Your comments would be appreciated. --Upset In Sioux Falls

Dear Up: Pinching is a preadolescent response to anger. That husband of yours sounds like a case of arrested development. I agree that a swat on the back porck should do the job (but not in church, please) -and the pinching has got to go.

Dear Ann Landers: Summer means vacation to most people, but to others it means one clump of relatives after another, more work and higher food bills. I've seen plenty of letters in your column about sponging vacationers, but I've never seen my problem.

Will you please tell how some people have the nerve to come "for a few days" after having visited other friends and relatives, and the first thing they do after the initial hug and hello is to ask, "Where's the washer and dryer?"

This happens to me repeatedly and I can't understand it. One couple had been traveling for ten days and they were heading home after a weekend with us. They brought three suitcases full of dirty laundry. Mrs. Clean washed and ironed every soiled item before she left.

I can see why it be necessary to rinse out a few things, but everything?

Am I wrong to think this is rude and inconsiderate? Don't they know detergent, bleach and electricity aren't free --not to mention the time taken from visiting? I love company, but running a free laundromat isn't my bag. Tell'em , Ann, They might listen to you. --Washed Out

Dear Washed: Since no guests have ever done their laundry at my house, I don't need to "tell'em." You, however, should speak up the minute someone asks, "Where's the washer and dryer?" Just say, "This is a vacation, dear. Do your work when you get home." And make it stick.

Dear Ann Landers: I was amazed to read your remarks chastising the person who used the expression "deaf and dumb." You suggested instead, "deaf and mute."

This is to tell you we don't care much for "deaf and mute" either. Actually, very few deaf people are mute. Some of us speak with difficulty and are not easily understood, but about 99 44/100ths of the deaf people can (and do) say "ouch" when they are pinched. So, please tell your readers that we may be deaf, sometimes silent, often quiet, but practically never mute. --F.S. (Nat'l. Assn. Of The Deaf, Silver Springs, Md.)

Dear F.S.: Now I'm saying "ouch" and I offer my humble apologies. One thing is certain. Deaf people might not hear, but they certainly do read --and boy, do they write!

Planning a wedding? What's right? What's wrong? Ann Landrs' completely new "The Bride's Guide" will relieve your anxiety. To receive a copy, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self -addressed, stamped envelope (20 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

Letters to the Editor

124 Autumn Dr.

July 23, 1974
Editor Sikeston Daily Standard
Sikeston, Mo.

Dear Sir:

Please consider reprinting the enclosed in your paper.

Thank you.
Yours truly,
David C. Kennan
Clerical Double
Standard

The Christian clergymen who administer Church World Service have said no to the Rev. Dr. Eugen Stockwell's well -publicized call for the agency to get out and promote social change. Stockwell, a National Council of Churches official, had wanted the group to stop emphasizing the palliation of misery and suffering and instead "to try to get at root causes and foster long -term initiatives for justice." The clerics replied that the agency "is not in the business of promoting violent revolutionary change."

Poor Dr. Stockwell; left out in the cold. But not without scope, really, for implementing his convictions. What if Stockwell and the rest of the socially conscious Christian clergy followed the lead of American Jews, who are currently waging a determined struggle in behalf of their co-religionists in the Soviet Union? The Jews try, in howsoever limited fashion, to exert social and economic pressure on the Kremlin, that the lot of Soviet Jews might be lightened.

Meanwhile, what do the Christian clergymen of the National Council of Churches do in behalf of Russian Christians, of whom there are many? (Solzhenitsyn, for example.) Do the clergymen ask that prayers be offered in Christian churches for the plight of Russian Christians? Does the council pressure congressment to pressure the President to pressure Chairman Brezhnev, that Christians in Russia may be better treated?

Of course not. To all appearances, the NCC couldn't care less what happens in the Soviet Union.

Ah, but Spain, Greece, Chile, Brazil -there is where the council long has thought the action was. No enemies to the left! So heap brimstone and coals of fire on the tyrants of the right. But those tyrants, whatever their sins, at least have created no Gulag Archipelago; they have not slaughtered their countrymen by the tens of millions. What of those who have? Does Dr. Stockwell wish "to try to get at root causes and foster long-term initiatives for justice" in Russia? and if not, why not?

Check asked into state milk pricing

JEFFERSON CITY --Regular meetings for consideration of various matters pending before the Missouri Public Service Commission were established Thursday.

The commission will hold the meetings daily at 9 a.m. in the office of chairman James F. Mauze, effective Monday. The duration of the meetings, which will be open to the public, will be determined by the number of matters to be considered.

"The commission believes that setting meetings on a regular schedule will expedite its work," Mauze said. "These meetings will be apart from the commission's public hearings on cases, which will continue to be scheduled in advance with notice to the public."

The findings of fact and conclusions of law on which the commission bases its decisions, and the votes of the individual commissioners will, as before, continue to be printed in the commission's orders.

Mauze said persons who wish to participate in commission cases or want to testify in hearings also may still contact either Michael F. Pfaff, commission counsel, or James Crenshaw, public counsel, with the Department of Consumer Affairs, Regulation and licensing.

The address and telephone number of the commission counsel are P.O. Box 360, Jefferson City 65101 and 751-2412, and of the public counsel, 505 Missouri Blvd,. Jefferson City 65101, and 751 -4114.

PSC sets regular meetings

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — An executive of the Mid-America Dairymen Cooperative, the largest milk coop operating in Missouri, today called for an investigation into the possibility of state control of milk pricing.

While admitting that open competition would be the best thing for the milk industry, Gary Hanman, senior cooperative vice president, told a joint legislative committee that circumstances in Missouri make consideration of milk price regualtion appropriate.

Hanman told the 10-member House-Senate committee, which is looking into problems facing state agriculture, especially milk and livestock production, that it has a "resposibility to exert its power to insure that American farmers are not put at a disadvantage."

"Drought problems together with the corn shortage and milk imports from other countries has put our dairy farmers in a very tight bind," Hanman said.

He made seven recommendations to the committee, several seeking state assistance in convincing the federal government to take action to help dairy farmers.

Hanman called for review of federal milk orders and other federal procedures concerning the dairy industry.

Speaking critically of enforcement and some procedures of the state Agriculture Department in connection with the 1959 Unfair Milk Sales Practices Act, Hanman urged re-examination of the law "to determine if it is applicable to the needs of today's environment."

He also called for an increase in the federal government's parity price for milk to the maximum 90 per cent, pointing out that price supports offered by foreign countries to their dairy farmers are significantly higher than those given American dairymen.

"Our dairy farmers don't object to competing on a world basis," Hanman said in calling for import quotas and the use of countervailing duty charges on foreign milk with high government price supports. "If we can make competition open—no subsidies, no supports—we can complete."

Fredrick bound over to Circuit Court on deadly weapons, assault charges

BLOOMFIELD --Eugene Fredrick, 28, of Dexter was bound over to Circuit Court Thursday, following a preliminary hearing in Magistrate Court before Judge Koss W. Blomeyer.

Fredrick is charged with displaying a deadly weapon against Jimmy Moore, an agent for the state department of liquor control, and felonious assault against special agent Vermont Johnson. Fredrick, is also charged with a third count of selling intoxicating beverages without a license.

Co -defendent's in the case, Lavaughn Baker, 32, of Dexter was granted a change of venue and Larry Gadberry, 27, of Overland had his charges reduced to common assault.

Witnesses called by the state included special agent Vermont Johnson who testified that on the night of Aug. 3, the three agents went to a tavern in Dexter owned by Lloyd Aarant after receiving a report that the tavern had been selling liquor after closing time. Johnson said he checked the front door of the tavern after discovering lights burning in the tavern at 1:45 a.m. After receiving no response at the front door, he then drove to the alley and checked the rear door. At this time, he was approached by Fredrick who asked him if he was looking for some beer. He replied that he was and Fredrick said he would sell him a six pack for $5. He said Fredrick then set the beer on the trunk of the agents car and Johnson paid him the $5. Johnson said he then produced his badge and identified himself and told Fredrick he was under arrest for selling beer without a license. Fredrick then hit Johnson, knocking him to the ground, and then proceeded to attack agent Jimmy Moore with a knife. Lavaughn Baker then appeared and began striking Johnson while he was still on the ground from the blow received from Fredrick. Johnson said he received several blows to the facial area and suffered a broken nose.

The second witness called was agent Jimmy Moore, who testified that Fredrick came at him with a knife after he had identified himself and proceeded to take back the beer sold to the agents. He said a woman, Elaine Scowden, ran between Moore and Fredrick and told Moore if he would put away his gun, Fredrick would drop his knife. He said he put the gun away and Fredrick then dropped the knife. When asked where he obtained the gun, Moore replied the gun was given to him earlier by special agent Vermont Johnson, when Johnson left another Dexter night club after he suspected that the club operators were suspicous of him being an agent. He said the gun was given to him because of the kind of customers which patronize this particular club.

The third witness, agent Richard Erwin of Perkins, testified that Gadberry did not take part in the actual fighting but blocked the car to prevent the agents from getting help.

In another case, trial or John Wayne Riggins, charged with common assault and disturbing the peace was reset for Sept. 26. Riggins is being held in Memphis, Tenn. on other charges.

Charges of stealing more than $50 were dismissed against Margaret Bender of Ark., upon payment of cost.

Loren Teets of Bernie entered a plea of guilty to writing an insufficient funds check and was given a 30 -day suspended jail sentence.

Cases continued included Gearld Freed, driving while intoxicated, and Winfred O Skaggs Jr. of Puxico, tampering with a motor vehicle.

Clarence H. Smith and Rickey Allen Traughber of Bernie were finded $50 each on charges of possession of intoxicating beverages by a minor.

David L. Wheetley of Puxico was fined $100 on charges of driving while intoxicated. Paul L. Wheetley was fined $50 for possession of intoxicating beverages by a minor.

Fined for traffic violations were, James Milton Young of Sikeston, speeding, $18; David Lee Baker of Malden, speeding, $15; William Earl Fallowell of Bernie, permitting an unauthorized person to operate a motor vehicle, $10; Mickey Gail Patrick of Bloomfield, speeding, $12; and David Lee Qualls of Dexter, no operator's license in possession and Missouri resident with out of state plates, $10 on each charge.

Trial was set for Sept. 5, for Howard Hensley, who entered a plea of not guilty to careless and imprudent driving.

Six arrested

Police today announced four arrests including Betty Louise Smith, 511 W. Market St., Charleston, two counts of petit larceny; Jackie Ann Smith, 511 W. Market St., Charleston , two counts of petit larceny.

Allen Louis Howard, 801 Delmar, St., improper registration; Michael Lee Hixon, 411 Illinois, Ave., speeding; Frank Burney S. Venice, Ill. tampering with a motor vehicle; Riley Hue Gross, 222 Fuch, peace disturbance, assault and battery, petit larceny.

Dexter plans airport work

DEXTER -The Dexter Airport Board is planning more than $500,000 in improvements at the municipal airport on Highway 114 East. The improvements will be aimed at improving the runway facilities.

"We're hoping to do $500,000 to $600,000 worth of improvements in the fiscal year 1975," Willard Brown, board chairman, said. The improvements would be contingent on receipt of a federal matching funds grant so that Dexter's share of the total cost would be only about one -sixth.

"The first major improvements would be to the north -south runway, the taxiways, and the lighting," Dr. Robert Boon, board secretary, said. He said there are cracks in runway and weeds growing through them.

Tentatively, the runway would be resurfaced. It requires a heavy asphalt surface and it would be crowned for drainage.

The expense of resurfacing a runway is so great because of its size and the necessity of using a thick surface. The main runway is 4,500 feet by 100 feet which would be more than two miles of city street. The taxiway is as long but half as wide, plus there are crossovers.

"We could spend $1 million to a $1.5 million very easily," Joe Weber, board member, said. He gave as examples lengthening the runways and building a control tower.

There is a diagonal runway at the municipal airport, in addition to the main one. It is the same size but not lighted.

All the needed improvements will be included in a "master airport plan" which the board has commissioned to be developed by a Sikeston engineering firm of Buchmueller, Whitworth and Foust.

The federal government requires a master plan before granting funds for improvements. The board will receive federal matching funds to help pay for the plan which can cost several thousands of dollars.

"It is basicallly a long range plan in relation to the airport," Brown said. "You must have a master plan first. Supposely when they (the engineers) get through, we'll have a plan for the next 20 -25 years.

The plan will include a survey of the city. The survey will indicate how to take care of the city's future needs, based on industrial and population growth trends.

Environmental needs will be accounted for in the plan, and are in fact one of the major reasons for a master plan. Airport improvements must be designed so as not to upset the environment.

The board hopes to have the master plan in their hands withing the next 90 days. Then, they can proceed to plan for major improvements.

The city's share of the major improvements and paying for the master plan will be paid for out of profits from a city -owned farm operated by the airport board. The farm surrounds the airport and is share -cropped.

"We get no city monies at all," Dr. Boon said, The 600 acres of crops provide most of the profit for the airport operation. The airport itself generates very littly revenue.

The unusual farm situation allows the airport to run without being subsidized from the city general fund. The farm profits will allow the airport board to make improvements without calling for a bond issue.

Woman who killed husband sues to collect insurance

BENTON -A $35,000 civil suit has been filed in Scott County Circuit Court by Mrs. Vivian Holland, 40, of 1009 Henry St., Sikeston, against Life Insurance Co. of North America and Missouri Teachers Association in payment of her husband's policy.

Mrs. Holland received a suspended three -year prison sentence under supervised probation in Circuit Court July 12 in connection with the Jan. 27 shotgun slaying of her husband, George Holland.

Mrs. Holland was to have stood trial June 10 on a first -degree murder charge, but pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of manslaughter and sentencing was postponed until July 12.

Charges set forth in the suit by Mrs. Holland include:

- On March 1, 1973, George Holland was insured in the amount of $25,000 by Life Insurance Co. of North America.

- On Jan. 27, 1974, Holland died and at that time Mrs. Holland was named beneficiary on the insurance policy , and has complied with all conditions and provisions of the policy.

- A reasonable time after the death of Holland she gave the insurance company due notice and proof of the death and demanded from them the payment of $25,000 provided by the policy, making the insurance company indebted to pay her the sum of $25,000 with interest from Jan. 27.

- More than 30 days have elapsed since Mrs. Holland first made the demand for payment of the policy proceeds, and the insurance company has failed and refused to pay her. The refusal was without reasonable cause and she is entitled to recover the additional sum of $2,500 for damages and $7,500 as a reasonable attorney fee.

Holland was allegedly shot while sitting at the kitchen table of their home. According to police, he was shot at close range with a 12-gauge shotgun.

The pellets entered the back just below the left shoulder blade.

Teens accept challenge to 'Get dirty for God'

MELBOURNE, Fla. (AP) — "Get dirty for God—lay a brick" is the message some 500 teen-agers who want to be missionaries overseas are learning this summer at "the Lord's boot camp."

The youths come from all over for the two-week training program, where sponsors say they learn bricklaying, carpentry and other construction trades.

Robert Bland, director of the nondenominational Teen Mission Camp, says that after a couple of weeks of military-like discipline the youths find the transition to the poverty-stricken regions of Bolivia, Colombia, Haiti, Venezuela and Peru much easier.

"We challenge the kids to 'Get dirty for God,' to really put their faith into action," he says, adding that the young people are taught that their evangelism will be more effective if they put work first and preaching second.

They harden muscles by lugging sandbags, swinging over creeks on ropes and scaling 12-foot walls, and they learn to do without modern home conveniences.

The program started four years ago in Greenfield, Ohio, with 67 youngsters. This summer, the 500 teen-agers in the program come from 47 states, Canada and Mexico.

Bland says the young missionaries have built more than a dozen churches, youth camps, orphanages and even air strips in remote regions since the program began in 1971.

The story centers around Patty, an average girl caught up in living for the present with little concern about the future. What happens when this type of thinking catches up with her provides and unforgettable drama.

Filmed in Iowa, the movie portrays with devastating reality the Biblical prediction, "There will be no place to hide."

This week's Sunday School lesson

Scripture: Colossians 2:13-23

FREEDOM IN CHRIST

A Christian is not in bondage to outward rules and regulations. He has made his choice to freely accept the will of God.

This freedom in Christ removes the individual from the bondage of superstitition and speculative philosophies that deny Christ.

Paul continues here today to advise the church at Colossae about what the members could expect after they had decided to accept Christianity. To the church at Corinth he had written, "Where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is freedom."

Epictetus wrote many centuries ago that "He whose body is chained, and his soul unbound, is free." Paul was saying the same thing. When the Holy Spirit enters a person that individual's soul is now free.

Obviously the gift of freedom involves a corporate responsibility, such as Americans now read in the interpretations of our First Amendment. The press is free. Yet the press accepts responsibility in the use of this freedom.

A similar relationship between freedom and responsibility is frequently voiced by high school and college commencement speakers. Now the students are freed from classroom confinement but they have taken on a new responsibility role.

Adults don't become too upset when the younger generation demands new freedom so long as these individuals work out methods to put new ideas into operation.

Freedom is a necessary element in Christianity. God would never force His people to act against their will. God's chosen ones should acquire such characteristics as compassion, kindness, lowliness, meekness, and patience.

The Christian must constantly remind himself that he cannot use this freedom for his own selfish and immoral purposes.

Paul explains the result of this new freedom for his followers. He urges these persons to first recall their past, when they were spiritually dead. And he tells them not to overstress outward signs.

The dead are made alive in the acceptance of this freedom. Their trespasses are forgiven since Jesus died for them. God made the people alive, offering them this freedom of choice.

The law so vividly stressed in the Old Testament is to be set aside by the Christians. Jesus died to remove this penalty on us. In other words, He assumed our debt to God for our sinful living.

Paul continues to warn about the false teachers. He wrote about the Jews and Greeks with their limited views on specific eating and drinking habits.

Unfortunately, there are too many persons today who "worship" diet programs more than their worship of Christ. Paul warned about persons who permitted their minds to be dominated by the flesh.

Our soul can be content only if it exists in a spirit of freedom. Paul found it easy to turn the false teachers aside. Unfortunately, Paul found it difficult to understand why anyone encountered problems in accepting Christ.

Spiritual freedom requires us to rearrange our priority list. We need to take another look at what we consider to be essential in our daily lives.

Paul witnessed persons who were in bondage to material possessions. We still know people who have the same unChristian views today.

In offering reasons for all to accept Christ, Paul wrote about the victory of the spirit over evil. He also reminded the people that rules are temporal and will perish. We see our covets continue to shift the meanings of our laws.

We believe we are free today, but are we?

How many persons are under bondage to horoscopes? How many persons seek to solve their problems by turning to other individuals rather than to Christ?

James Madison wrote in 1785 that "It is the duty of every man to render to the Creator such homage, and such only, as he believes to be acceptable to Him."

Church group concerned about farmer's plight

NEW YORK (AP) — The farm—that remote, often ignored combination of toil and soil that provisions the nation— is seen by a band of mostly rural Christians as under a modern siege that threatens its ruin.

"The patience of rural people is nearing exhaustion," says a candid, detailed analysis of the farm situation approved last month in Roanoke, Va., by the annual conference of the Church of the Brethren.

Citing the increasingly yawning gulf between a farmer's costs and the return he gets for his crops, along with other pressures on him, the 20,000-word study says:

"Perhaps no other occupational group has been so poorly understood."

The report came at a time when various church bodies, both Protestant and Roman Catholic, are stepping up their concern about farm issues.

The Church of the Brethren, a relatively small denomination of 181,200 members, two-thirds of whose congregations are in rural areas, made its study because of trends driving farm families off the American scene.

Between 1960 and 1970, the report noted, 800,000 people left the land. Only about 2.4 million families—4.6 per cent of the total—now live on farms. Twenty years ago, the number was about 7.4 million families.

Lopsided economic trends were cited as squeezing many farmers out of business, with their costs rising 62 per cent and their taxes 290 per cent between 1950 and 1970, while prices they got for their produce rose only 6 per cent.

Meanwhile, "business and professional persons with incomes larger than farmers are bidding up prices of farmland, often as a hobby or investment," pushing up farmland prices and taxes "to a point above what a farmer can afford," the report said.

At the same time, it adds, big-scale corporate farm operations, combined with processing, has cornered 75 per cent of the market and most government subsidies, with 7 per cent of farms—the biggest ones— getting 41 per cent of subsidies.

In contrast, the 50 per cent of farms that are of smaller, family size got only 9 per cent of the subsidies—an average $225 each.

Lad Family Singers to visit 2 churches

The Lad Family Singers, a part of Lad Ministries of Joplin, will present concerts in two area churches this weekend. The group will appear in concert at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in First Christian Church at Malden and again at 10:30 a.m. Sunday in the East Prairie First Christian Church.

The Lad Family Singers, along with the Gospel Lads, an all male quartet, make up Lad Ministries. The Gospel Lads are employed by Rivival Fires, an international, undenominational evangelistic ministry directed by Cecil Todd. The Lad Family Singers are making appearances throughout the United States.

The Lad Family Singers are a vibrant group made up of four members.

Janice, Sue and Mike have done a great deal of work in the past with such groups as the Melody-Aires, Celestials, Gospel Couriers, the Relation and the Gospel Lads.

Mike and Sue Campbell, two members of the group, have been viewed many times on the nationwide TV program, Revival Fires.

THE BIBLE

148. King David Conquers Jerusalem

It came to pass that the elders of the tribes of Israel came to Hebron, and there agreed before the Lord to anoint David king of all Israel. Then David and his men went to Jerusalem to confront the Jebusite stronghold.

Thinking that they were secure in the fortress, the Jebusites taunted David and his men, even asserting that the lame and the blind could defend Zion against David and his men. When David heard the insult, he sent his men up through the water tunnel into the city, and they conquered the stronghold.

"So David dwelt in the fort, and called it the city of David. And David built round about, from Millo, and inward. And David went on, and grew great; and the Lord God of hosts was with him." (II Samuel 5:9-10)

Perry snaps 6-game skid

Gaylord Perry's on a winning streak ... one in a row.

Earlier in the baseball season, that would have been a joke. But it isn't now to the Cleveland Indians' pitcher.

Perry, who won 15 straight in one stretch this year, was on a six-game losing streak before Thursday night's 4-2 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

In the only other American League game, the Baltimore Orioles nipped the Chicago White Sox 2-1. And in the only National League game, the Chicago Cubs beat the Houston Astros 5-3.

"I've never had any doubts in my ability to pitch," said Perry, who hadn't won a game since July 3. "I've felt great all along. I've just been in a slump."

At one juncture of the season, the two-time Cy Young winner had a dazzling 15-1 record. Now, it's a more modest 16-7.

"That's the longest slump I've ever had and it has been the hardest one," Perry noted.

He was taken out of Thursday night's game after walking the leadoff batter in the eighth inning. He had given up just five hits.

"I didn't want to come out," Perry said. "But you can't say it was a bad move from the way it worked out."

Frank Duffy's two-run single provided Perry with his winning runs. With the score tied 1-1 and two out in the Cleveland sixth, John Ellis doubled. Minnesota starter Bert Blyleven, 11-14, then walked Oscar Gamble and Tom McCraw to load the bases and set the stage for Duffy's single to left. The Indians scored an insurance run in the eighth on McCraw's sacrifice fly.

Orioles 2, White Sox 1

Earl Williams and Paul Blair walloped home runs in support of Mike Cuellar's six-hit pitching as Baltimore beat Chicago.

The Orioles failed to score in the third after loading the bases with one out, but Williams connected for his ninth homer of the season in the fourth and Blair slammed his 13th an inning later off loser Jim Kaat, 13-10.

Cubs 5, Astros 3

Second baseman Larry Milbourne dropped Steve Swisher's two-out, bases-loaded popup for a two-run error in a three-run eighth inning to give Chicago its victory over Houston.

Billy Williams started the winning rally with a one-out single—the 2,500th hit of his major league career—off Ken Forsch, 4-4. Andy Thornton walked and Jerry Morales singled, tying the score.

Jim York replaced Forsch and walked Bill Madlock intentionally to load the bases. He struck out George Mitterwald before Milbourne dropped Swisher's routine popup, letting Thornton and Morales score.

Mingo Wilderness Area could be reality in '75

WASHINGTON — Backers of the proposal to create a national wilderness area in southeast Missouri will have to wait until 1975 at least before anything is done.

10th District Rep. Bill D. Burlison, D-Cape Girardeau says "there is nothing doing" on the plan to designate the wilderness area in Mingo National Wildlife Refuge.

The congressman said legislation paving the way for the wilderness area still has not been formally introduced in Congress although a wilderness area plan endorsed by former President Nixon went to Capitol Hill in November 1973.

The plan calling for a 1,700- acre wilderness area in the refuge near Puxico in Stoddard County is included in the former Nixon administration proposal calling for the establishment of 12 new wilderness areas.

"None of these 12 have been acted upon," Rep. Burlison said. "It is my view that action will not come until next year. I have no idea when next year, but since it will not be an election year the wilderness area proposals stand a good chance of passage."

Rep. Burlison said the Watergate- impeachment troubles of Mr. Nixon that brought about his resignation as President on Friday had little to do with the delay of the Mingo Proposal.

"Delays of this nature are not unusual," he said. "It would be pretty difficult to trace the delay to Watergate."

Rep. Burlison said he was still supporting efforts for an 8,000- acre Mingo wilderness area instead of the 1,700 acres proposed in 1972 by the Department of Interior.

The 8,000 acres will preserve historic Monopoly Lake and other natural points of interest including lowland hardwood timber.

The measure is before the public lands subcommittee of the House Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs.

Rep. Burlison said he still wants subcommittee members to come to southeast Missouri for field hearings on the larger wilderness area proposal, which has been spearheaded by local, state and national conservation groups as well as the congressman.

"The members were too busy during this election year," he observed. "I am hopeful that one or more members of the subcommittee will come to the 10th District to hold field hearings next year." He said there should be at least one hearing -- at Mingo.

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Former Oral Roberts University basketball Coach Ken Trickey pleaded guilty Thursday to an amended charge of careless driving involving his arrest last March.

He originally was charged with driving while intoxicated. Trickey, 40, was arrested several hours after his Titans defeated Louisville in the first round of the NCAA Midwest Regional Tournament here March 15.

District Court Judge Robert Green fined Trickey $100 and $15 court costs at the recommendation of Asst. Dist. Atty. John Boggs, then suspended the fine.

Cordoba was a vice president of the WBA and has become the first Latin-American chairman of the association.

Cards obtain Osteen

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "I want to emphasize we're taking a chance," said St. Louis Cardinal General Manager Bing Devine Thursday after the acquisition of veteran lefthander Claude Osteen from the Houston Astros.

The Cardinals dealt away 19-year-old Ron Selak a pitcher with the Cards' Arkansas farm club in the Texas League. He is 9-8 so far this year and was the team's No. 2 draft selection in 1973. The Astros will also receive a player to be named later.

"Selak has come a long way in a year and a half. But pitching is the area where you try to strengthen yourself, if you can in our situation," Devine said.

The Cardinals, 1½ games ahead of the Philadelphia Phillies in the National League East, are seeking firmer ground in the starting pitching department.

"And I'm not thinking of Osteen just for this year," the general manager added. "To all intents and purposes, you have to recognize that Osteen is a starting pitcher."

Osteen, 35, brings a 9-9 record to St. Louis, including two victories this season over the Cardinals. He was a 20-game winner with the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1969 and 1972 and was traded to Houston last year for outfielder Jimmy Wynn.

The veteran lefthander has a 189-177 career mark.

Selak is to report to the Astros' Columbus, Ga., farm club in the Southern League.

Waterfowl season approved by state

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A waterfowl hunting season similar to the 1973 season has been approved for this year by the Missouri Conservation Commission.

One change will allow shooting to begin a half hour before sunrise. Also, the duck season will be five days longer, beginning Oct. 30 at noon and ending Dec. 18.

Canvasbacks and redheads are forbidden to hunters on both sides of the Mississippi River from Alton Dam north to the Iowa line.

The Missouri blue and snow goose season will be 70 days, beginning Oct. 30 and ending Jan. 7.

The Swan Lake Zone, where the bulk of Missouri's Canada geese hunting is done, will have a quota of 20,000 birds, or a 70-day season, whichever occurs first. The season begins Oct. 30.

The southeastern zone (east of Interstate 55 and south of Crystal City) will begin Dec. 1 and close Jan. 20 for Canda geese. For the rest of the state, the Canada geese season will begin Oct. 30 and last 45 days.

Reservation cards for state waterfowl areas will be accepted after Aug. 20 at the Department of Conservation Headquarters in Jefferson City.

Mulligan leaves camp

NORMAL, Ill. (AP) — The starting center for the St. Louis football Cardinals, Wayne Mulligan, left the team's training camp Thursday and asked to be traded after another player was moved into his position.

"I didn't suspect that Wayne would walk out," said Joe Sullivan, director of operations. "I thought he'd fight for his position or just say 'trade me' and stay in camp."

The 6-3, 250-pound Mulligan, a five-year veteran out of Clemson, became angered during Wednesday night's practice when Tom Banks, a starter at guard the past two seasons, was moved to starting center. Mulligan had held the starting center slot since 1970.

"We wanted to get a look at Banks there sometime during camp and with the late arrival of most of the veterans and time growing short, it was decided to do it right away," Sullivan said. "This thing is disappointing because Wayne is a nice fellow and a good football player," Sullivan added. He said he advised Mulligan against leaving camp, saying he could make a better trade if he remained.

Mulligan was not available for comment at his St. Louis home.

The Cardinals placed two other players on waivers—rookie running backs Chuck Smith of Yankton, S.D., College and free agent Larry Redmon of Pittsburg, Kan., State College.

There were 83 players in camp Thursday with three veterans still missing. Center Tom Brahaney and linebacker Pete Barnes remained in St. Louis for a phvsical, while linebacker Jeff Staggs was en route from the West Coast.

Litton said an important world food conference will be held in Rome this fall and special consideration will be given to the world food reserve. He noted that all nations of the world must realize that the United States can not continue to provide food reserves for the rest of the world. He said these nations must contribute their share to the cost of adequate storage for the world's food supply.

Litton was asked what he would do if he had the power to solve the cattle industry's problem. He replied: I would try to get the President to promise that government would stay out of farming for the next five years.'.

Noting that he thought the farm situation could work itself out on the open market, he said, "I think that the sooner the government stops mingling in supply and demand, the sooner this problem will be solved."

Two directors were elected to three -year terms at the meeting. They were Louis KalKbrenner of Poplar Bluff and Ray Fowler of New Madrid.

A fianancial statement released to members shows the Production Credit Associations has total assets of $40 million, an increase of $10 million from last year.

The amount the PCA owes also increased by $10 million from $25 last year to $35 million this year.

Income for the first six months of the year is $1.5 million compared to the first six months of 1973 when income was $900,000.

Henry Fonda narrates the "Minute" on Wednesday, Aug. 21. On that date two centuries ago, the legendary Col. Israel Putnam arrived in Boston from Pomfret, Conn., with a gift for the starving Bostonians -- 125 sheep. The "Minute" will air at approximately 7:57 p.m. CDT, at the conclusion of "The Hudson Brothers Show."

On Thursday, Aug. 22, the "Minute" is to be narrated by Beatrice Arthur, who describes how John Adams was impressed with the elegance and architecture of New York City, yet expressed no desire to live there. The segment will be seen at approximately 7:30 p.m. CDT.

Beau Bridges narrates the "Minute" on Friday, Aug. 23. Two hundred years ago on that date a sickly James Madison was brought back to health by the new air -- the brewing Indian War and the start of the Continental Congress -- American were breathing. NO RECESSION FOR GAME SHOWS

HOLLYWOOD — Recession is a word that's being bandied about these days. But there's no such tragedy befalling the game show business.

Merrill Heatter and Bob Quigley, currently the grand pashas of TV game shows, are bullish about the present and downright crazy about the future.

"Game shows are flourishing today," says Heatter. "There was a period of recession but then CBS began using them in place of soap operas. Now NBC is using them, too. It's become very competitive and very profitable."

"There are no game shows in prime time with the networks," Quigley says. "But the FCC's prime time access rule has helped us. I think it's helped the audience, too. Our show, Hollywood Squares, appeals to everyone and there's no way for many people to see it in the daytime. With the prime time access rule, we can be seen in the early evening."

Besides Hollywood Squares, Heatter- Quigley has Gambit, on CBS. Another of their shows, Baffle, recently was cancelled. The cancellation didn't discourage them.

"In the game show business," Heatter says, "it's possible to resurrect shows. We consider a cancellation to be merely building inventory. There's a good possibility that Baffle may be resurrected."

Now they are working on other shows. They are always working on other shows.

"We always have ideas in various stages of development," Quigley says. "A game show office is like an artist's studio — he has a lot of canvasses around in various stages of completion, and so do we."

They've just done a pilot for a musical quiz show for ABC. Another one is coming along, almost ready for the pilot stage. And other ideas are moving along behind those two.

The two men say they are taking "a new and different tack" with the second pilot they're about to do. This time, instead of working with a network, they're developing it strictly on their own.

"It costs about $100,000 to do," Heatter says. "But, this way, we can keep control of it ourselves. We can sell it to a network for daytime use and syndicate it for nighttime use."

RICHARD, A 7TH GENERATION NEPHEW OF DANIEL BOONE

RICHARD BOONE
'Hec Ramsey' on
NBC Sun. Mystery Movie

As the veteran of roles as a gruff lawman in turn-of-the century Westerns, Boone has settled into the role of Hec Ramsey with ease.

Success isn't new to Boone, who has starred in several popular TV series: "Medic," which first brough him to television prominence, "Have Gun, Will Travel," the Western in which he played the tough, erudite "Paladin," and "The Richard Boone Show," an anthology series.

In 1964, he pulled up stakes and made his home in Hawaii for 7 years.

One of the important reasons for the move was Boone's desire to cut down his acting schedule so that he could spend more time with his son, Peter, born Aug. 22, 1953. Boone felt that the growing years of his son were too important to forsake for the busy life of the television industry.

In recent years Boone has undertaken several assignments "to keep in practice." He accepted roles in such pictures as "The Arrangement," "The Kremline Letter," "The Alamo," "Big Jake," "Hombre" and "Madron."

His career didn't get underway until after World War II when, in 1946, he enrolled in New York's Neighborhood Playhouse via the GI Bill.

Before that he had attended Stanford, where he was a college light-heavyweight boxing champ in 1936 and 1937. He worked in the oil fields, took up painting, and spent 4 years in the Pacific as an aerial gunner for the Navy.

His early acting assignments included those at the N.Y. Playhouse, on and off Broadway and some 75 starring roles for TV.

After touring with Dorothy Gish in "The Man," Boone was signed by 20th Century-Fox for such films as "The Halls of Montezuma," "Call Me Mister," "The Desert Fox," "Man on a Tightrope," "The Raid," and "The Robe."

Boone was born in Los Angeles and is a seventh-generation nephew of Daniel Boone. His father, Cecile, was s successful corporation lawyer. Boone received his primary education at the Army and Navy Academy in San Diego. He worked summers on chartered fishing boats.

Married to the former Claire McAloon, Boone lives in St. Augustine, Fla.
